Commissioners Act

6 At Courthouse Fired; TB Clinic Control Switched

The Republican majority of the Columbiana County Board of Commissioners Friday gave dismissal notices to six courthouse appointees, retained six and changed the control of the TB Clinic from trustees to the County Board of Health.

The lone Democratic member of the commissioners' board opposed the dismissals and the switch in control of the clinic, which the GOP members said was in the interest of economy.

COMMISSIONERS Walter Hunston and Galen Greenstein, Republicans ordered the termination notices issued to the six effective with the end of work Tuesday. Frank Wilson, Democrat, dissented.

The six being dismissed are Miss Sandra Shaw of Lisbon, clerk-typist in the commissioners' office; Mrs. Jane Case of Columbiana, switchboard operator; Mrs. Ruth Vining of Columbiana, assistant operator and clerk in the dog warden's office; Miss Patricia Barborak of West Point, photostat operator; Mrs. Camilla Smith of Wellsville, microfilm operator, and Harold Diedrick of Lisbon R. D., maintenance man.

The six had been rehired under two 15-day extension since the Republicans took control of the commissioners' office Jan. 1.

Democrats claimed all holdover appointees of their — the Democratic — administration were protected by Civil Service. The county prosecutor's office ruled otherwise.

RETAINED WERE Russell Reichenbach, county dog warden; Harold McCall of Rogers, assistant dog warden; Oscar Lodge of Lisbon, fireman at the Courthouse, and Leo Chamberlain and Mrs. Frank Stockman of Lisbon, Mrs. Leona Dore of Salem, and William Brown of Salineville, all custodians.

Dan Butch, clerk of the commissioners, resigned earlier, leaving another post that must be filled. Lewis P. Kramer of Columbiana, resigned as painter in December to accept the position of sealer of weights, and his position still is vacant.

The commissioners had met Thursday without taking any action on the personnel, adjourning to Friday afternoon when the ax fell.

The board yesterday did not announce any new personnel to fill the terminated posts starting Wednesday. The commissioners are scheduled to meet Monday — from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. — and selections could be announced then.

PROSECUTING Atty. G. William Brokaw, at the request of the commissioners, recently gave his opinion that the commissioners' act (Turn to COURTHOUSE, Page 2)

U.S. Admiral On Way

Captive Ship Due In Brazilian Port

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—A U.S. admiral was flying to Brazil today to set up a rendezvous with the Santa Maria amid reports the rebel commander of the captive liner had agreed to put into a Brazilian port when negotiations to release passengers are completed.

A U. S. Navy flier returning from a flight over the ship said the rebel Portuguese leader, Capt. Henry Galvao, had told him by radio that he was ready to bring the Santa Maria into "any selected Brazilian port."

The report by Cmdr. William Webster of Galvao's offer came on the heels of a U.S. promise of safe conduct for the rebel skipper to discharge his 588 captive passengers, including 42 Americans. All the passengers aboard the fugitive vessel were reported well.

Webster said Galvao had spoken to him in English and told him he had informed Adm. Robert L. Dennison, commander of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, that he would circle a point on the equator at 35 degrees west longitude while negotiations continue.

The Navy disclosed that Rear Adm. Allen E. Smith Jr., commander of the Caribbean Sea Frontier, had been ordered from naval headquarters in San Juan to meet the Santa Maria if the ship decides to confer with the Navy.

The orders to dispatch Smith came after a report that Galvao had sent a new radio message to Dennison, but the details were not disclosed.

A Navy public relations officer, James Harrington, told newsmen in San Juan, "you had better go to Belem. That's where the big story will break within 16 hours." He made the statement at about 8 p. m. Friday night.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said the Santa Maria had "drastically changed" course and apparently was veering away from the direct course it was taking toward west Africa.

Dennison gave Galvao assurances the Navy would take no action against the Santa Maria if he carried out his announced willingness to release the passengers, who were trapped when the self-styled revolutionists seized control of the cruise ship Sunday in the Caribbean.

Galvao, a former captain in the Portuguese army, and 70 armed followers boarded the luxury ship at stopovers in Venezuela and the Dutch West Indies. They proclaimed the liner "liberated" in their announced attempt to overthrow Portugal's strongman, Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

Dennison made the safe conduct offer in an exchange of messages with the Portuguese insurgent leader without making any political commitments.

The fleet commander said to protect the lives and property of the Americans aboard and because of humanitarian concern for all the passengers he would "take no action to interfere with his (Galvao's) entering or departing a port, or lying off a port, for the purpose of discharging the passengers."

Trail Blazer For Human

6 Chimpanzees Begin Final Tests; One Due Space Ride

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Six young chimpanzees began final preparations today for a rocket ride one of them will take next week to blaze a trail for human space travel.

Twelve hours before the scheduled launch time, perhaps on Tuesday, medical men will decide which of the six is best fitted physically and psychologically for the jolting ride intended to take the ape 115 miles high and 290 miles down the Atlantic missile range.

If the chimp and his space capsule come through the 16-minute, 4,200-mile-an-hour ride unscathed, one of America's astronauts probably will take an identical trip into space within two months.

The upcoming flight is designed to determine how the small passenger reacts under extreme forces of acceleration and re-entry and during a five-minute period of giddy weightlessness. The chimps have been trained to perform a series of lever-pushing tasks during the ride.

A chimpanzee was selected for the journey because his body and mind most nearly resemble man's.

Four of the candidates for the flight are male, two female. They are between 3½ and 4 years old, with weights ranging from 27 to 47 pounds. During the final days before the scheduled blastoff of the Redstone booster rocket, they will undergo repeated medical checks and bone up on their lever-pushing chores.

"When the time comes for selection," a National Space Agency official reported, "we will pick a primary chimp and an alternate. If the primary animal gets cold feet, we'll use the other."

Electronic sensors will be attached to the ape's body. These will measure heart beat, body temperature, respiration and task performance during flight.

6 Americans Face Trial In Cuba Today

Charged With Effort To Join Rebel Force; Could Be Executed

HAVANA (AP)—Six Americans charged with trying to join anti-Castro rebels were to go on trial today before a military tribunal in ancient La Cabana fortress. They faced death at the execution wall.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime, which by unofficial count already has shot 539 persons, including three Americans, said the six sailed from Marathon Key, Fla., and were captured entering Havana harbor Jan. 7.

They are George R. Beck, 24, of Norton, Mass.; Tommy L. Baker, 28, of Dothan, Ala.; Donald Joe Green, 28, of Clover, S.C.; James E. Bean, 34, of Cedar Falls, N.C.; Alfred Eugene Gibson, 32, of Durham, N.C., and Leonard Louis Schmidt, 21, of Chicago.

The Americans were charged with "crimes against the security of the state," a general accusation covering conspiracy—a crime punishable with death by firing squad.

Councillor Gilbert De Dardel of the Swiss Embassy, which is caring for U.S. interests in Cuba, said he had been advised the Cuban prosecutor would ask for the death penalty.

Two veteran Cuban lawyers, Anibal Pacheco and Luis Raul Fletas, were retained to defend the six.

The Castro regime's continuing propaganda barrage against insurgents in the south-central mountains of Cuba suggested the government is preparing a new all-out assault on the counter-revolutionary bastion.

Reports from Miami that two top members of Castro's revolutionary movement had fled Cuba swept through Havana. But there was no official comment on the reports that Maj. Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo and Maj. Armando Fleites were among 19 Cubans who landed in Florida.

Another deserter of the revolution, an American who once commanded a firing squad for Castro, was arrested in New York and faces execution if he is returned to Cuba. He is Herman F. Marks, 33, a former captain in Castro's army now listed as a deserter.

Marks lost his U.S. citizenship because he fought for Castro. A native of Milwaukee, Wis., he reportedly fled Cuba after a controversy over his alleged mistreatment of prisoners in Havana jails. As an alien he faces deportation for entering the United States illegally and because of a 1952 conviction for a crime of moral turpitude in Milwaukee.

Trial For Pair Set In Doctor Kidnaping

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Peter L. Rizzo, 21, and Anthony Pizzuto, 24, both of New York, pleading innocent to a charge of kidnaping Dr. Ralph M. Rea of Steubenville, have been released on $10,000 bonds pending trial set tentatively next week.

They were arraigned before U. S. District Judge Rabe F. Marsh in Pittsburgh Friday.

Dr. Rea, held in jail Thursday night as a material witness, was released on condition that he remain available for the trial. Rea had been taken in custody by federal authorities who said they learned he planned to leave on a trip to Italy.

Rizzo and Pizzuto were indicted for kidnaping the physician who reported that they had forced him into an automobile at a Steubenville parking lot last Nov. 16 and drove him to near Pittsburgh where he said he managed to escape.

Post Office To Move

NEGLEY — Postmaster Harry Bricker said the Post Office will be moved today and Sunday into the newly-constructed building. He said all the moving will be completed over the weekend and he will open for business Monday morning in the new location.

More Snow Forecast

Icy Lock Snaps Shut On Ohio River

After another night of zero cold, winter clamped an icy look on the Ohio River and tributaries today for the first freeze-over since the disastrous runoff of floes two years ago.

This view, taken from the Chester Bridge with the stack of the old incinerator plant sticking up above the hills, shows broken floes held in new ice that developed overnight after the mercury hit the zero-mark.

One to 3 inches thick, the ice has not stopped towboat traffic and the occasional passage of craft serves to keep the channel open.

Ice ranging in the thickness from one to 12 inches covers most of the three main rivers in western Pennsylvania, the U.S. Weather Bureau's river forecasting service at Pittsburgh reported.

River forecasters said the worst freezeup along the Allegheny River between Sharpsburg and Olean, N. Y., where 2 to 12 inches of ice is reported.

A 2-to-3 inch blanket of ice covers the Monongahela River from Charleroi to Hout, W. Va., and one to 3 inches on the Ohio River from Sewickley to New Cumberland.

Running ice about an inch thick was reported on the three rivers in the Pittsburgh district.

A spokesman at the river forecasting service said the five-day forecast issued Thursday calls for a drop in river temperatures to 15 degrees below normal. This should result in a thicker ice layer on the Ohio and Monongahela Rivers.

On Jan. 22, 1959, the floes and gorges let go and carried away over 100 barges, some of them sinking on the wild ride down the Ohio. They were torn from their moorings at steelmill docks in the Pittsburgh vicinity.

Meanwhile, occasional light snow was forecast for tonight with a slight moderation in the cold wave. There was no estimate of the accumulation.

Today's high will be 14 to 18 degrees and tonight's low will be 8 to 12 — contrasted to the zero reported at Dam 7 between 2 and 8 a. m. The downtown had 2 above. The State Highway Department garage at Leetonia reported 6 below and a Fredericktown had an unofficial 10 below.

Sunday will be quite cold with snow flurries.

21 More File Candidacies For Primary

2 Democrats Out For City Council Seats Among New Entries

Twenty-one more candidates, including three seeking Democratic nomination for City Council seats in East Liverpool, filed nominating petitions Friday with the County Election Board.

With the filing deadline Wednesday at 4 p. m., the late rush boosted to 94 the number of candidates for the May 2 primaries.

The new city candidates are Frank Duffy, 1623 Holliday St., one of the leaders of Trades and Labor Council's opposition to the new city income tax, who is seeking an at-large post; Floyd L. Murray, 1709 Etruria St., First Ward, and Earl Spencer, 806 Sophia St., Second Ward.

Wellsville also gained another council candidate while Democratic slates were entered from Lisbon and East Palestine.

Rex Sayre, 514 Broadway, filed for the Democratic nomination as First Ward councilman in Wellsville.

McKone and Olmstead had been held in a Soviet prison since their RB47 jet observation plane was shot down over the Barents Sea last July 1. Four other crewmen either were killed or are missing and presumed dead.

President Kennedy personally led the reception for the returning fliers as they landed at snowy, windswept Andrews Air Force Base.

Later, the fliers and their wives visited the White House for coffee with the President and Mrs. Kennedy.

Reunion With Children

2 Freed Airmen Head For Kansas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Capt. John R. McKone and Freeman O. Olmstead headed back toward Kansas and a reunion with their children today after almost seven months in a Russian prison.

The fliers and their wives, who greeted them here Friday, took off at 9:27 a. m. for the flight to Topeka and another formal welcome. The trip was expected to take 3 to 3½ hours.

A warm welcome from President Kennedy and their wives here Friday eased the chill of weather better suited for Siberia than Washington.

In the midst of the pomp and ceremony and a presidential greeting, both men said they wanted to go home and see their children.

The Olmsteads have a daughter, 2, and expect a second child in early March. The McKones have an eight-month-old son and two older daughters.

Site Rejected For New Post Office For City

Postal Department Advises Turk Quest For Land Continues

East Liverpool's hopes for construction of a new post office building in the downtown area received another setback Friday.

A proposed site at W. 7th and Jackson Sts. has been rejected by the postal department, John Meinhardt, regional real estate manager, said in a letter to Mike Turk, head of a Chamber of Commerce committee, which has been urging construction of a new building to provide adequate space.

Meinhardt gave no reason for the rejection, but his letter indicated the department felt the proposed location was not suitable or may have been too costly.

However, a ray of hope was held out—Meinhardt said the search for a site will continue.

Cunningham's Trip To Penitentiary Looms

Ira Cunningham remained in the County Jail at Lisbon today, his commitment to the State Penitentiary expected possibly Monday.

Unless there is some sort of court action on his behalf, he probably will be conveyed to Columbus early next week for a 1-5-year term for burglary.

Sought for a week after the State Supreme Court advised the prosecutor's office the former East Liverpool policeman's appeal had been dismissed, he was arrested in Wellsville Thursday. He had been free on $1,500 bond. He was convicted and sentenced in 1959 but filed an appeal.

Collection Legislation Also Enacted

Appropriation Steps Started To Utilize $150,000 Proceeds

A municipal income tax of 50 cents on each $100 of earnings went into effect Friday night at 7:40—the moment City Council voted unanimously to override a veto Mayor Bert H. Goodballet affixed Jan. 7 on an ordinance enacted Dec. 29.

Council immediately took the legal steps to clear the way for it to appropriate an additional $150,000 with which to operate the city government in 1961.

The 7-0 vote on overriding came as a surprise to the 29 who took spectators' seats to watch the climactic moment reached on an East Liverpool income tax for the fourth time in a little less than three years.

It had been reported unofficially that three councilmen were opposed to overriding, which meant Council would have fallen one short of the five votes required to make the ordinance a law over the mayor's disapproval.

Caucus Reveals Intent
But an informal poll in the caucus room 15 minutes before the regular meeting convened revealed that Council was ready to show a united front on the question.

The section of the meeting in which the veto was overridden required only 10 minutes. After the special meeting was called to order and the roll was called, President Charles N. Edwards threw the floor open to "personal privilege," the time reserved for citizens to speak. But no one accepted the offer.

Then Councilman John Melvin, chairman of the finance committee, made the motion to override the mayor's veto, seconded by Councilman Donald Hancock. The roll was called, resulting in the unanimous vote, and Edwards declared the veto overridden and the ordinance in effect.

But Council was in session until 9. It enacted a 26-page resolution setting up regulations covering computation and payment of the tax. The task of reading the bulky piece of legislation required 76 minutes. Then it too was approved unanimously.

No Comment Heard
None of the councilmen commented on either piece of legislation.

As the meeting closed, Mayor Goodballet made a brief statement in which he promised to "use all of the powers of my office to see that any monies appropriated by Council will be economically and usefully administered."

"Now that Council has deemed

6 Prisoners Flee Jail At Steubenville

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Six prisoners escaped from the Jefferson County Jail here early today by gouging a hole through a brick wall of the first-floor bullpen.

Deputy Sheriff Russell Wilsac said the prisoners broke a bar from one of the windows and used it to chisel a hole about 18 inches square through the wall. They squeezed through the hole and dropped eight feet to the ground.

Deputies discovered the break in the bullpen from escaping Wilsac said one of the five had his head through the hole.

He identified the escapees as Harvey A. Woodland Jr., 18, of Steubenville, held on a charge of automobile theft; John W. Bucy, 18, Steubenville, auto theft; Mike L. Kavanaugh, 21, Steubenville, breaking and entering and parole violation; Homer D. Jones, 32, Annapolis, Ohio, cattle stealing and parole violation, and David Carpenter, 23, Adena, Ohio, grand larceny.

Wilsac said two automobiles were reported stolen near the jail shortly after the prisoners escaped. Road blocks were set up in the area.

Tax In Effect; Councilmen Override Veto

it necessary to override my veto of Ordinance No. 31, commonly known as the income tax ordinance, I feel that it is incumbent upon me as the mayor of the city of East Liverpool to accept this action as a due process of city government," the mayor said.

"I feel that Council by taking this action did what it felt was best for the operation of the city government and I sincerely believe that this difference of opinion will in no way affect the successful operation of the city government in the future," he continued.

Explains His Reasons

"In my veto of the ordinance, I did only what I felt was the proper thing for me to do to keep my promises made to the people of the city when I campaigned for this office.

"I feel that now Ordinance No. 31 has been duly enacted into law there would be no benefit derived by my continuing to oppose legislation pertaining to the income tax ordinance. I can only pledge to Council and the citizens of East Liverpool that I will use all the powers of my office to see that any monies appropriated by Council will be economically and usefully administered."

When Council enacted the tax of five-tenths of one per cent Dec. 29, it said the additional revenue is needed to forestall the possibility of laying off 35 employees, including police, street department workers, firemen, school crossing guards and some persons on the City Hall staff.

Street Funds Needed

The funds also are required for a program of capital improvements, including street repair, resurfacing and paving, Council said. The city ended 1960 with a deficit of over $20,000 and its general fund income in 1961 will be down about $40,000 from last year, which meant that a minimum of $60,000 in new revenue was needed to keep pace with 1960, Council said at the time the tax was enacted.

Trades and Labor Council, which forced similar measures to a vote of the people in 1958 and again in 1959, has promised to seek a vote on the current measure in the November general election.

But since the ordinance contains an emergency clause, the city will be able to collect the tax pending the November vote.

On the basis of an estimate of $200,000 additional annual revenue from the tax, it is expected to produce about $150,000 between now and November.

Shortly after the veto was overridden, Melvin made a formal motion to clear the way for Council to appropriate the additional $150,000.

Must Notify Auditor

It calls for Council to certify to City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate the fact that the additional $150,000 in income is expected. It also calls upon the city auditor to certify the same facts to the County Budget Commission at Lisbon and request it to issue an amended certificate of estimated income.

The County Budget Commission's official certification is required before Council can make the additional appropriations.

The tax ordinance and the regulations governing its administration are virtually an exact copy of the measures that were enacted by the former Council in 1958 and 1959 and proposed again in 1960 by a Citizens' Committee—except that the rate is the lowest of the four.

The ordinance imposes the tax on all earnings and other income, including fees of professional men and net profits of business and industry. It affects both residents and non-residents.

Must Withhold Tax

East Liverpool employers are required to withhold the tax from the wages of their employees, then turn the funds over to the city. Persons not subject to withholding are required to file individual income tax reports, as under the federal income tax law.

The ordinance exempts a long list of payments such as unemployment compensation, pensions, alimony and other such items of income.

Unless repealed in the meantime, it will be in effect four years—through Dec. 31, 1964.

One of the first steps now required of the city is re-establishment of an income tax office to administer the ordinance. Such an office functioned here briefly when another ordinance was in effect from May 1 to mid-November 1950. It produced approximately $135,000 before it was repealed at the polls.

The second tax ordinance was enacted in the spring of 1959, but set up in such a way it would not be collected pending a test at the polls. In the general election that year, the voters rejected it.

1960 Plan Detailed

A Citizens' Committee proposed an initiative ordinance for an income tax in 1960, but it also was defeated by the voters.

Last night's session was strictly business. The only words uttered by the councilmen were the formal motions and seconds necessary to move the legislation through the required process.

It was a far cry from the stormy meetings which marked the sessions in 1958 and 1959 when the earlier tax ordinances were being considered. Crowds jammed the chamber then to argue for and against the measures.

The audience last night was quiet, listening attentively to the lengthy verbiage of the ordinance on tax regulations. It included B. E. Warner, who was Council president in 1958-59; Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Police Capt.

Robert Pyle, Fire Chief Charles Bryan and Dog Warden Robert Croyle.

The meeting opened with invocation by Edwards. It closed at 9:05, a moment after the mayor made his statement about the overriding of his veto and the administration of the funds it will produce.

New Group Aims To Assist Small Business Firms

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—An organization designed to help small and medium-sized manufacturers in this area to sell their products abroad was formed here Friday.

The body, called the Northwest Ohio Export Development Council, will be composed of members who are experts in one or more areas of foreign commerce. Rodolphe Huart, a vice president of the National Bank of Toledo, was named chairman of the group.

One of the organization's major functions will be to show a manufacturer how to analyze a foreign market, how to enter foreign trade and how to get help from private concerns and government agencies.

Creation of the group, most of whose members are officials of major Toledo companies, was encouraged by the regional export expansion committee in Cleveland. The council hopes to spur the local economy, increased shipments through the port of Toledo and help the federal government stem the flow of gold to other countries, by improving our balance of trade.

Hospital Treats 2 Injured In Falls

Two persons injured in falls Friday were admitted to City Hospital where five others were treated for various injuries.

Walter Wright, 40, of Amity, Pa., is in "fairly good" condition with a large laceration above the right eye and injuries of the leg and back suffered when he fell from a barge while working for a Pittsburgh dredging firm below Wellsville yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Naomi Roach, 1531 Main St., Wellsville, is in "fairly good" condition with a possible fracture of the left knee suffered in a fall at home Friday evening.

Thomas Govey, 15, son of Lewis Govey of Indiana Ave., Chester, injured his left foot while sliding yesterday morning.

Clifford Snyder, 25, of Anderson Blvd. fractured his left thumb when caught in a hi-lift while working at the American Vitified Products Co. yesterday afternoon.

Juanita Neuch, 9, daughter of Mrs. George Neuch, 529 Harrison St., Newell, suffered a possible fracture of the hand in a fall on ice.

Miss Angela Brncic, 317 Market St., fractured her right wrist in a fall on ice yesterday afternoon while crossing a city street.

Fire In Furnace Wiring Causes Run By Firemen

City firemen responded to one minor fire Friday night after making three investigations yesterday afternoon.

They were called to the home of John Hughes, 600 Orchard Grove Ave., at 8:37 p. m. when an electrical short developed in the wiring to a furnace blower.

Firemen were called to 1st Ave. to check a gas heater but found nobody at the home when they arrived.

They investigated an odor of fumes in the F. W. Woolworth Co. store at 125 E. 5th St. and found it was created when water had been poured over hot ashes in the basement.

In another investigation, they found smoke from the chimney at Pleasant Heights School was blowing back down through the ventilators and into the rooms.

Advancement Revealed In A-Power For Planes

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission says scientists have managed to start two turbojet airplane engines and bring them up to normal operating power on nuclear energy alone.

The AEC, announcing this Friday, called it an important advance in the development of an atomic engine for aircraft. In previous tests, the agency said, scientists had to start the engines with a regular fuel and then transfer them to nuclear power.

Salvador Figure Dies

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Robert Edmund Canessa, 42, Salvador political leader and former secretary of state and justice minister, died Friday in a hospital two days after fleeing his revolt-torn country.

Occupants Of 4 Cars Unhurt In 2 City Crashes

Slippery streets were blamed for two city traffic accidents Friday in which four autos were damaged but no one injured.

As the aftermath of a collision yesterday afternoon at the three-way intersection of Lisbon St., Belmar and Wyoming Aves. on Pleasant Heights, Dr. A. J. Knapp, 64, of the Lincoln Highway was cited for driving left of center.

Police said cars operated by the physician and Dale H. Laughlin, 60, of Fisher Park collided head-on, causing heavy damage to the front end of Dr. Knapp's 1954 auto and damaging the grill, front bumper and splash pan of Laughlin's 1960 model.

Dr. Knapp told police he was approaching the traffic signal, which was green, and slowed to 15 miles an hour when his car began to slide and he was unable to bring it to a halt.

He said he was afraid to attempt a turn for fear of hitting the Laughlin car broadside, and the two cars then collided head-on in the northbound lane. The mishap was timed at 2:15 p. m.

A collision at 3:08 p. m. at College and E. 5th Sts. damaged an auto driven by Thomas V. McElroy, 34, of 612 Owens Rd., Wellsville, and a parked car owned by David Mayers of Park Blvd.

McElroy told police he was making a left turn from E. 5th onto College St. when he struck a patch of ice and started to slide to the right. He said he took his foot off the brake but was unable to control the car.

Police said the Mayers car was parked illegally on the southwest corner.

Charles M. Marshall, 648 Miner-va St., reported to police last night the front fender of his car was scratched by a hit-run motorist while it was parked in front of his home.

Icy Roads Blamed For 2 Accidents

Icy highways were blamed for two minor accidents investigated Friday by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Officers said Harry McConville, 49, of Ross Meadows slid left of center on a curve on Route 267 in the Glenmoor area Friday at 2:55 p. m. and struck a car driven by Lester R. Davis, 34, of the Y. & O. Rd., Wellsville R.D. 1.

Only minor damage resulted to McConville's 1960 station wagon and Davis' 1956 sedan, officers said.

A car driven by Nicholas Carl Zoellers, 24, of Wellsville R.D. 1 sideswiped one driven by James L. Williams, 34, of Parkway Ext. Friday at 7:10 p. m. on Township Road 925 at Cannons Mills.

Officers said Williams turned off Route 30 on the township road and Zoellers turned behind him.

Williams then had to halt for a stalled car and was sideswiped by the Zoellers vehicle, officers said.

125 Youths Attend Methodist Institute

Approximately 125 youths were enrolled for the Senior High Midwinter Institute of the Steubenville Methodist District which opened Friday in the First Church at Lisbon.

"Resurrecting the MYF" was the theme for the worship services this morning with Gary Hicks of Fisher Park, East Liverpool, a member of the First East Liverpool church, in charge.

A drama, "The Cross We Carry," was presented this morning. Dr. Francis Christie, dean of Mt. Union College of Alliance, was a principal speaker.

The session ended after lunch. Hicks is district president.

Youths' Hearing Set For City Burglaries

A West Virginia youth and another of Cleveland will be given a hearing Thursday before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin for burglaries in East Liverpool Jan. 22.

They were returned to East Liverpool Tuesday from Wheeling, after arrest for trying to break into a restaurant there.

Turned over to Chris Pusey, county juvenile officer, they were cited before Judge Tobin. Their parents were notified of the hearing. The boys are in the County Jail detention room.

IOOF Lodge Inducts

EAST PALESTINE — Russell Reesch of the Unity Rd. was seated as noble grand during installation of officers held Friday night by the Odd Fellow Lodge. A team from the Salem lodge was in charge of the installation.

pointees are not protected by civil service.

Wilson, the lone Democrat, contacted James Welsh, director of the State Department of Personnel, and was informed the commissioners have 14 provisional appointees who possess civil service status until such time as an examination is given for their positions.

It is expected that a suit may be filed over the dismissal of the employees.

The commissioners' action in returning the TB Clinic to the Health Board apparently left the three Democratic-appointed trustees with nothing to do.

THE COUNTY tuberculosis control clinic is on the third floor of the Courthouse adjacent to the health board office.

At the board meeting Jan. 16, Commissioners Hunston of East Palestine and Greenstein of Salem asked the board if it would assume control of the clinic, citing the economy of the move.

Two years ago, the Democratic-controlled commissioners transferred control of the clinic to a three-man board of trustees. Trustees are Dr. William Z. Sulkes of East Liverpool, J. R. Sanders of Salem and Atty. Robert Hartford of East Palestine.

The commissioners' action apparently abolishes the Board of Trustees, which has been meeting monthly with the TB clinic director, Dr. F. G. Kravec.

WILSON commented "the board of trustees serves as interested citizens, receiving no pay for their services or travel."

The vote was 2-to-1 on these issues, President Hunston and Vice President Greenstein voting for the transfer and the change of personnel and Wilson, of Wellsville, voting against them.

Wilson Explains Stand For Trustees

Commissioner Frank Wilson today made this statement on the move to abolish the TB commission:

"I am opposed very strongly to this change and made an earnest plea that the situation remain unchanged. The creation of the commission is authorized by law and was originally created by Mr. Walter Hunston and Mr. Galen Greenstein, who now wants to abolish it. It is non-partisan in nature, containing at least one member of the opposite party of the majority members."

"The members served without pay as a public service. It was created to remove the TB Clinic from politics and now it is being proposed to again make this clinic a political football. I urgently plea that this shall not be done. Surely, no one would or should trade on the misery of the unfortunate that have been afflicted with this disease. I feel quite sure that the people of Columbiana County intended this clinic to be free of politics when they voted the TB levy."

Industry PTA Board Sets Public Card Party

Tentative plans for a public card party April 20 in the fire hall were made at a meeting of the Executive Board of the Industry Parent - Teacher Association Thursday afternoon.

Director And 3 Students To Take Part In Festival

Vincent Maola, supervisor of instrumental music at East Liverpool High School, and 3 members of the high school band will be among 1,200 students and music supervisors expected to attend the annual high school festival next Saturday at Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware.

Maola, a 1956 graduate of the university, will be the guest band director.

The students are Dave Pennybaker, trombone; Tom Fannin, clarinet, and Paul Jarvis, string bass.

The students will be divided into two bands, a chorus and an orchestra. They will rehearse during the day for a public concert to be that night.

Also expected to attend are 13 members of the high school choir and 8 from the Beaver Local High School.

Maola and his wife and the three students will leave Friday and return Sunday. E. King Mathews, choir director at the high school, and Carol Pittenger, choir director at Beaver Local school, and their students will leave Saturday morning by bus. Mrs. Mathews will accompany the group.

$25 In Cash Among

Loot In Home Burglary

Some $25 in cash, a shotgun, a homemade guitar and a changer were stolen from his home Friday night by a burglar who apparently used a key to unlock the front door, Douglas Reynolds, 131 E. 3rd St., told police Friday.

Reynolds said he returned home at 11:43 p. m. and found the front door open and padlock missing.

The currency had been taken from a desk drawer, he said. The homemade black walnut guitar was valued at $250, Reynolds said, while the 410-gauge shotgun was worth $25 and the changer $12.

Post Office

His brief letter to Turk said:

"This is to advise you the department, through its operational officials, has rejected the site known as 'Site A,' fronting on Seventh and Jackson Sts., which earlier was recommended to the department for the relocation of the post office operation in downtown East Liverpool.

"We will continue our search for the proper acceptable location within our budgetary limits, and wish to sincerely thank you for the efforts you have given this matter to date, and trust you will continue assisting us until the desired end has been accomplished."

The cost of a site can be a major factor in determining whether the city gets a new building, a department spokesman indicated in Washington a few days ago.

At the time, the spokesman explained any new building would be erected by a private contractor and leased to the government. The only federal funds involved would be in obtaining the necessary equipment and, in some cases, buying the lot, he said.

"If the lot is too high, we won't go into a city, either," the spokesman said.

The spokesman also explained no announcement will be made until a site has been picked. Some local interests scramble to buy property and push up the price when it is known a new building will be constructed, he said.

"There are only so many places in East Liverpool where you can build a post office building," he continued.

A search has been under way for several months after Arthur G. Summerfield, then postmaster general, notified Turk that funds to construct a post office would be available this year. However, he did not give a time for construction to start.

The department also is investigating possible sites for an East End branch. Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said earlier. A lease is expiring in the building the department has shared with the First Federal Savings & Loan Association for more than 30 years.

Stolen Chester Car Is Recovered

A 1954 four-door sedan stolen at Chester was recovered shortly after midnight by Police Chief Harold Davis and Arnie Durham, Hancock County sheriff's deputy.

The car belongs to Miss Alda Fowler of Carolina Ave., who told Chief Davis she did not know that it had been taken from her garage where she placed it Thursday.

A resident of the Fairview Rd. reported a car in a ditch and partially blocking the road about a mile and a half from Chester. Chief Davis radioed Durham, who checked and called back the owner's name. It was found near the bottom of Cemetery Hill.

The garage was unlocked. If a key was used to start the car it may have been one among those in two purses Miss Fowler said were missing or stolen.

4-H News

The Elwood 4-H Club of Newell announced plans to award a gift to the oldest member, who left this week for duty in the service, at a meeting Thursday night in the American Legion home.

Recipient of a pen and pencil set with a 4-H emblem will be Miss Carolyn Wilson, who left Wednesday for Ft. McClellan, Ala., for three years duty in the Women's Army Corps.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson of Lennyville, Miss Wilson was past president of club and was a member seven years. She was salutatorian of the 1960 Senior Class of Wells High School.

The award will be presented when she returns home for her first furlough.

Nineteen members responded to roll call. Karen Bragg and Roy Whitehill were named to participate in a countywide 4-H safety quiz contest Monday night in New Cumberland. A preparatory safety quiz was conducted.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Glenn Galloway and Mrs. Robert Ripley. Mrs. Wayland Lancaster is club leader. The next meeting is Feb. 23.

Cold Weather Closes North Side Firehouse

The No. 3 fire station on North Side was closed again today because of cold weather. It was closed one day earlier this week for the same reason.

Firemen said the temperature went down to 35 degrees in the section of the building where the truck is housed and that snow would not melt on the floor.

The heating system apparently is not adequate to keep the large building warm.

The truck and the men were transferred this morning to Central Station downtown. The North Side station will remain closed until the weather moderates.

Hancock PTA Council Meeting Reset Friday

A meeting of the Hancock County Parent-Teacher Council scheduled Monday night has been postponed to Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Weirton Heights school.

Mrs. Anthony DiBart, president, said an outline of a proposed $5,250,000 building and modernization program for county schools will be presented by Supt. Robert H. Hall.

Supt. Hall will be in Charleston Monday for a legislative meeting, necessitating postponement of the council's meeting.

Past presidents will be honored during the Founder's Day program, Mrs. DiBart reported.

Robert E. Parrish, illustrious potentate of Osiris Temple, will install these officers for 1961:

Kermit McIntyre of Weirton, president; Robert Swain of New Cumberland, first vice president; James T. Black, second vice president; Berlin Knauss, secretary-treasurer, and Kenneth L. Snodgrass, four-year term on the Board of Directors, all of Weirton.

A large number of members of the Divan of Osiris Temple are planning to attend, according to John Shernit.

Parrish will present a report on a recent visit to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Philadelphia. Charles McElroy, recorder of Osiris, and McIntyre, member of the Divan, also made the trip.

Refreshment will be served by Alonzo Brown and Clyde Cozzens.

Cubs At Newell Honor Member

David Anderson was honored with a party for achievements when Cub Pack Dens 2 and 5 met Friday afternoon in the Jefferson School in Newell.

The youngster has completed three years of Cub Scouting and received the ranks of wolf, bear and lion. The awards were framed and presented him by Mrs. Edwin Carson and Mrs. George Gogol, den mothers.

Jerry Anderson and Danny May won prizes for the animals they made from a "genius kit." Mrs. Helen Doane and Mrs. Vera Nease, first grade teachers, were judges.

Danny Filo and Donald Samson won prizes in a balloon-breaking contest. Richard Gogol entertained with a Cub Scout puppet.

Refreshments were served by the den mothers. Mrs. Richard Haynes, Mrs. Carson and Mrs. Gogol. A living circle with the cubs repeating the "Promise" was the closing activity.

Removing The Causes Of Friction

Sooner or later, public opinion will make an adjustment to the Kennedy administration's policy for handling the problem of American-Soviet relations.

It is apparent that President Kennedy and his advisers are trying to remove causes of friction that could continue to keep the relations inflamed. It is apparent that the Kremlin is thinking in the same direction. There could be no other reason for its release of John R. McKone and Freeman B. Olmstead, the two Air Force captains who survived the Russian attack on the RB-47 plane last July 1, when it was operating close to Russian territory.

The Kremlin always knows the U.S. position on points of difference between it and the United States. It is kept informed of U.S. opinion by the world's most elaborate and active organization of spies. The Kremlin is never naive about American opinion. It knew its policy of holding these two men was the most aggravating thing it could do.

It released them at the outset of a new administration for a particular effect. It wanted to make a gesture of conciliation — not friendship, just conciliation. The Kennedy administration has responded with a gesture of conciliation of its own—a declaration that no aerial spying will be permitted. There will be no more U2 incidents, and that might mean there would be no more RB-47 incidents, either.

It might mean there would be no more incidents of any kind. It could mean the end of the nagging that has inflamed American-

Russian relations—the nagging reminder of two children pestering each other were it not for the mushroom cloud that now looms over every act of bad will.

The United States could remain as determined as ever not to yield to the Soviet Union. The Kremlin could be equally determined to yield nothing to the United States. Each could intensify its drive to destroy its rivals by attrition and the power of example. Both could step up the ardor of their appeals to nations actually or potentially friendly to them.

But if there were to be quiet diplomacy with no inflammatory statements, the atmosphere of tension that has surrounded American-Russian relations since the end of World War II could be broken.

Public opinion could grow accustomed to days, weeks and months without exchanges of insults. There might even be an end to the practice of referring to the Soviet Union as "the enemy," which it is not in fact. Russia is officially an ally of the United States.

This would take a lot of getting used to if it happened.

Some warn that it would be dangerous because Americans might be lulled to sleep by a false sense of security. That would not be likely.

No one is going to accuse the Kennedy administration of being soft on communism even if it succeeds in giving Americans fewer nervous moments about what Communists are going to do next.

Responsibility For Education

Educators, college students and parents of potential students are giving special attention to the "Cleveland plan" of corporate contributions to educational funds.

It bears this name because it originated as a project to step up support for a Cleveland college. One of its originators is Charles M. White, retired board chairman of Republic Steel. Its aim is to make corporate support for education a fixed percentage of income, instead of leaving the amount of the contribution to the discretion of individuals.

It is a title for learning that corporations and companies would put into practice as a fixed expense of doing business. Fortunately, it can be adapted to any plan of giving now in effect. No new organization needs to be created to take advantage of the idea.

MONEY MADE AVAILABLE in this way can be given to individual colleges or to groups of colleges. Two policies, however, would control the use of the money:

1. It must be given with no strings attached; it must be used at the discretion of the receiver.

2. It must be given annually at a rate that would be a fixed percentage of business income. The "Cleveland plan" envisions that this would be 1 per cent before taxes at the end of the first three years and more in subsequent years as the need develops.

These Are The Things We Respect

There has come to be a special significance each year in observances of William McKinley's birthday. Jan. 29 has turned into a day to show respect for a quality often derided in this hostile-bustle country.

His contemporaries never had reason to complain that they had been treated with anything but the finest courtesy by William McKinley, before or during his years in the White House. He was unfailingly considerate of his associates. As a representative in Congress, governor of Ohio and president of the United States, he could make petitioners feel they had been well-treated even when their petitions were being rejected. He was never rude, never abrupt.

There has been no equal of his patience. He was one of the merriest of all the presidents, taking great delight in jokes and enjoying himself thoroughly in the companionship of his friends and relatives. He refused to become the victim of annoyances that would have irritated other men.

The significance of this enduring characteristic of his behavior is the way it withstood some of the most severe aggravations ever inflicted on a public figure. Any recapitulation of the McKinley trials makes the annoyances commonly borne by human beings seem trivial.

No one ever heard him sound angry or act angry about either his private or his public problems. He never put his associates in an awkward position by showing annoyance or anger.

This quality that William McKinley possessed in abundance is not part of the trappings of heroic success in America. But it is among the things that Americans respect when they find it in others, and it is respected to this day in the life of William McKinley, the gentle man who always kept his poise.

The Once Over

The recent golf game between President Kennedy, Billy Graham and William Reynolds of Reynolds Metals, still intrigues us. We hear the President and the metal tycoon were under an excusable strain due to realization that, even after missing the ball completely, they must never blow their top or use orthodox golf course language.

They could not say to the world-famed evangelist, "You've got to have confidence that you're doing the right thing," as he chose a club. To suggest "Just knock the ball out of the ball," would never do. Certainly the golf course taunt, "You don't live right," would be in poor taste.

Mr. Reynolds could have wrecked the round by saying, "What you need is better aluminum and stainless steel clubs." We keep wondering if President Kennedy at any time, as he bent over the ball, told Mr. Graham, "Don't stare at me. It makes me wonder if what I'm doing is wrong."

SLOT MACHINES that dry-clean men's suits are being turned out. It would be a sure-fire hit if gambling angle could be applied. (Think of putting in a quarter; hitting the jackpot and getting a new suit, two pairs of shoes and a dozen shirts!)

The U.S. budget indicates that Uncle Sam can live on $81 billion this year if he skips the shrimp cocktails, waters the soup and doesn't order dessert.

Washington didn't send a man to the moon but it sent budget there.

Camel in Australia likes beer. It can go eight days without a beer commercial in the pinches, we assume.

President Kennedy smokes no cigarettes, likes cold beer with his dinner and when he wants a cocktail he favors a daiquiri. We understand his youthful Cabinet scorns an "old fashioned."

United States has barred American tourists from Cuba. Both of them? . . . Ike's budget proposed raise in postal rates. Better yet why not charge by size, weight and color for 4-cent stamps?

Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's press secretary, was a boy prodigy as a pianist. He still has concert ability. Harry Truman's rating as a White House piano player will take a big drop.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

Imprisoned in England for his faith at the age of 25, William Penn wrote:
"My prison shall be my grave before I will budge a jot, for I owe my conscience to no mortal man."
Persecution did not daunt the spirit of the Quaker who founded Pennsylvania. It made him resolve there would be religious freedom in his new land, "because no people can be truly happy tho' under the greatest enjoyment of civil liberties, if abridged of the Freedom of their Consciences." Pennsylvanians enjoyed civil and religious liberties, and helped pass them on to us through the Constitution. Indians responded to Penn's brotherly love.
Pennsylvania was Penn's "holy experiment" where government was for "the good of mankind."

Goldberg Clarifies Stand On Labor

By Victor Riesel

The President and his Cabinet commuted on such a tight timetable between so many luncheons during the inauguration that they never did get a chance to down one fruit cup. At one stop, Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg sat down just long enough to ask the lady along side him: "Haven't I seen you some place before?" Kim Novak began to reply just as a messenger ran up to say, let's go, the President is moving again.

Later Adlai Stevenson commiserated with Goldberg by commenting: "If this continues, the new administration won't die of pneumonia on the New Frontier, it will die of malnutrition."

But there was one luncheon to which JFK went with only Arthur Goldberg — and what occurred there must be recorded in the diary of the first hundred hours of the inaugural activities.

This was the gathering of the nation's 30 most influential labor leaders.

President Kennedy arrived, fedora in hand. He grinned at the hatters' president, Alex Rose, and said, "I'm wearing this for you."

The President then went up to Joe Keenan whom Defense Secretary McNamara had refused to appoint to the Pentagon. JFK shook Joe's hand and said, "I'll talk to you alone in a few days."

MR. KENNEDY then told the labor leaders they would not always see eye to eye but that they were good friends and with good will they always could work things out.

There, behind closed doors AFL-CIO President George Meany assured him he had their support all the way and that these were not mere words of polite greeting.

It was also noted by those with a mind for history that this was the first time any President had visited so informally and privately with the entire leadership of labor.

The exchanges were brief. The time budget allowed some 20 minutes. Then Meany "introduced" Art Goldberg to the group — many of whom had been his clients until just a week earlier.

Mr. Goldberg, now quite obviously more a confidant than just labor secretary to the President, then took some of the remaining minutes to state his principles while the President listened as intently as did the labor leaders.

"I am not non-partisan" said Goldberg "when it comes to aiding the unemployed. I am not non-partisan when it comes to getting a living wage for workers. I am not non-partisan to the justice of either side in a dispute. Otherwise, there will be no partisanship."

"Neither John Kennedy nor I have great liking for all sections of the Landrum-Griffin law. But as long as it is on the books I will enforce it. There will, of course, be common sense in this enforcement. But it will be enforced."

IT IS IMPORTANT to remember that this was a private gathering. The secretary of labor need not have raised the issue of enforcement of the law which has been fought so bitterly by the union chiefs in the room. But the nature of this man moved him to declare his principles even as the President and the most powerful unions faced each other.

Earlier, in discussing enforcement of the act which compels labor to live financially in a goldfish bowl, Mr. Goldberg told this columnist that there would be no vendetta with any union, not even Hoffa's teamsters. "Neither will there be any free passes," he observed. The law also attempts to guarantee democracy for labor's rank-and-file.

At a testimonial dinner in Chicago a week previous, Mr. Goldberg had warned that he expected more of labor than observance of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act. He said they must do more than comply.

HE SAID he would be the public advocate of all who work and all who hire and all who depend on both these forces to keep the nation functioning. This included businessmen and labor men — and those who do not belong to unions.

"I expect," Goldberg said that evening in Chicago, "a higher standard from labor than that which is provided in the Landrum-Griffin law."

The labor movement should be a "dedicated calling," he said. That is as it should be and should have been for a long time. That is why Republicans and Democrats alike cheer this man who has made a broad philosophical highway out of the narrow middle of the road.

Kennedy Sticks To Promise

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON President Kennedy, during the campaign, promised "action" if elected. So far the record shows he meant what he said.

In his first week in office he began work on disarmament, had a hand in settling a strike, acted to help depressed areas and the Congo, moved in other directions, and may have helped in getting Russia to release two captured U.S. fliers.

During the campaign, Oct. 15, he said: "We must let Mr. Khrushchev know we are permitting no expansion of his foothold in our hemisphere."

He let Khrushchev know it Jan. 20, the day he became President, in his inaugural address: "Let all our (Latin American) neighbors know we shall join with them to oppose aggression or subversion anywhere in the Americas."

Kennedy said Oct. 12: "We must use our surplus and our technology to meet the critical African need for food."

He followed through at his first news conference, Jan. 26, with this: "The United States government has decided to increase substantially its contribution toward relieving famine in the Congo."

On Sept. 19 Kennedy, critical of the Taft-Hartley Act's labor-strike injunction, its main strike-settling instrument, said: "Why should we be armed only with the power to enjoin labor when there is a whole arsenal of other weapons available . . . including mediation."

On Jan. 21, the day after being sworn in, Kennedy agreed to have his new secretary of labor, Arthur Goldberg, go to New York to try to settle a two-week old damaging harbor strike. It was settled over the weekend.

On Oct. 5, Kennedy said: "We must get moving on the problem of depressed areas."

On Jan. 21, the day after becoming President, Kennedy in his first executive order started carrying out this campaign pledge by directing increased distribution of free food to needy families in depressed areas.

During the campaign Kennedy promised a code of ethics for government employees. Two days after taking office he appointed three law professors to advise him on ethics and conflict of interests in government.

On Sept. 10 he said peace "requires an America that is planning, preparing and striving for disarmament."

Tuesday, Jan. 24, he began his administration's study of disarmament in a White House conference with his top advisors on that subject.

In his speech accepting the Democratic presidential nomination last July 15, Kennedy promised to do something about the "blight" which "has descended on our regulatory agencies (like the Federal Communications Commission and Federal Power Commission)."

He acted with sharp speed on this by asking James M. Landis, former dean of the Harvard Law School, to investigate the agencies and report on remedies. Landis turned in a blistering report.

But Kennedy made campaign promises in many fields — like housing, education, depressed areas, and the economy — and appointed study groups to make recommendations to him by the time he became President.

They did. So he's prepared to act on them with Congress. If what has happened in Kennedy's first week is typical of how he intends to perform throughout his presidency, he and the country will have a busy four years.

Unanswered Question

By David Lawrence

Fliers Release Seen Result Of Concession

What ransom price did the United States government pay the Soviet government to effect the release of the two fliers from the RB47 who were kidnapped on the seas and held for seven months without being permitted to communicate with their own government? Did this country make any David Lawrence concessions to the Soviets and, if so, just what were they? Some senators are asking these questions.

As one studies the transcript of President Kennedy's first news conference, it is apparent that the administration here has not given to the American people the whole story of just what happened in the exchanges of messages between Moscow and Washington in the last few days.

One of the newsmen asked this question:

"Mr. President, can you tell us something about what your role was, if you had one, in the release of these fliers? Did this come about as a consequence of some action you took?"

Mr. Kennedy did not answer the question. He simply said that "this matter has been under discussion" by the American ambassador in Moscow and Soviet authorities.

The reporters were not satisfied with this avoidance of the issue and asked the President this question:

"In consequence of Mr. Khrushchev's apparent indication last week of a willingness to release the American fliers, have you sent any communication to him through Ambassador Thompson or otherwise?"

Mr. Kennedy's answer was: "We have had several exchanges with the Soviet authorities. I do not believe that one has taken place since the release of the prisoners."

LATER in the news conference, there was a further colloquy on this subject:

"Q. Did the Russians ask any quid pro quo or did we make any concessions to them in exchange for the release of these fliers? If not, how do you account for this remarkable turnaround in their relations with us?"

"A. The statement which I have made is a statement which the United States government put forward on this matter, which I read to you earlier in regard to overflights. I would not attempt to make a judgment as to why the Soviet Union chose to release them at this time. I did say in my statement to Mr. Arrowsmith (earlier in the press conference) that this had removed a serious obstacle in the way of peaceful relations between the Soviet Union and the United States and I would judge that they desire to remove that serious obstacle.

"Q. Does that mean, sir, that they accepted a reassurance of no more overflights as an exchange?"

"A. It is a fact that I have ordered that the flights not be resumed, which is a continuation of the order given by President Eisenhower in May of last year."

This leaves unanswered exactly how and why and when the pledge was given to the Soviet Union that no more U2 overflights would be authorized.

FOR ONE THING, Mr. Kennedy made it clear at the news conference that the shooting down of the RB47 was in an entirely different category from the U2 incident.

Actually, the RB47's fliers were forced down over the open seas, where they had a right to be. If there was no connection between the U-2 flights and the RB47 incident, the question, naturally arises as to why Mr. Kennedy felt it necessary to announce that during the discussions with the Soviet Union on the release of the RB47 fliers assurances had been given that the U2 flights would not be resumed.

The inference is clear that whether the commitment not to resume U2 flights was given in a conversation at Moscow by Ambassador Thompson during the last few days, separate from the one about the RB47 fliers, the Soviets themselves took the two to be related and based their action on it.

In other words, the Soviets wanted to appear before the world as having achieved a diplomatic victory and so they insisted upon some assurance concerning the overflights.

When this was given, the Soviets of their own initiative decided to release the fliers.

It will may be argued whether the United States was party to a "deal" but the plain facts are that, simultaneously with the release of the RB47 fliers, a commitment was announced by President Kennedy that there would be no more U2 overflights.

THIS IS in some respects a disappointing turn of events. The United States has a right to fly far above the ground and the Soviet Union insists upon the same right when it sends satellites around the globe that take photographs from high altitudes — a form of observation for military purposes.

There is no pledge as yet, moreover, that the Soviet Union will stop its espionage here in the United States or infiltration in other parts of the world, particularly Cuba, where it is openly assisting a government that is hostile to the United States.

Mr. Kennedy struggled through the press conference without making a definite statement as to how much the United States conceded to get the release of fliers whom the Soviets, of course, had no right to force down in the first place.

Mr. K Seeks Vatican Talk

By Bernard Kaplan

PARIS Never a man to take no for an answer, Premier Khrushchev has renewed his bid for a meeting with the Pope when he visits Rome later this year, reliable diplomatic sources here have been informed.

The Soviet leader has surprised both Vatican and Italian government officials by the emphasis he is placing on the proposal and the apparent importance he attaches to such an unprecedented confrontation.

Pope John, who some informants suspect has an overriding curiosity about Khrushchev, is reportedly giving fresh consideration to the idea. Though he rejected a meeting when the Soviet premier initially indicated he wanted one several months ago, these informants think a good chance exists he will change his mind.

They believe the pontiff was not disinclined toward it in the first place but was dissuaded by his Vatican advisers, particularly the secretary of state, Cardinal Tardini.

Khrushchev is to pay an official visit to Italy, returning that made the Moscow last winter by Italian President Giovanni Gronchi. Plans for return visit last year were canceled and the Italians are showing little eagerness for one now.

It is not church opposition so much as fear on the part of the Christian Democratic party that Italy's Communists will exploit the visit to their own political advantage which explains Italian reluctance to receive the Soviets' No. 1 long distance traveler.

For a similar reason, Christian Democrat politicians are cool to the idea of a Pope John-Khrushchev meeting. They believe the political impact in Italy would be immense.

Some Vatican and lay authorities are said to feel that the Pope should not deprive himself of a valuable opportunity to appraise the church's chief enemy and gain some insight into his intentions.

They also are confident that Pope John, like Khrushchev a deceptively homespun type, could more than hold his own with him and, because of Khrushchev's eagerness, would be able to impose his own terms for talks.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Approximately $70,000 in automobile license fees was turned over to the county treasury in Lisbon.

Dennis Hanley of Salineville was re-named deputy sheriff for a two-year term.

Special Programs Planned

City Ministers To Sponsor Youth Week Observances

Youth Week will be observed next week with special programs under the sponsorship of the East Liverpool Ministerial Association. The theme will be "Into All the World Together."

Daily devotions at 9 a. m. over WOHL will be conducted by the youth of the city churches. The schedule follows:

Monday, youth of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church; Tuesday, First Baptist Church; Wednesday, Pennsylvania Ave. Methodist Church; Thursday, Gardendale Church of the Nazarene; and Friday, First Church of Christ.

A citywide recreational night for the young people will be held Tuesday at 7:30 at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church. The program will include devotions, games for both Junior and Senior High youth, and refreshments. The young people are to bring 25 cents to cover cost of refreshments.

Feb. 5, at 2:30 p. m., a youth rally will be held at the Calvary Methodist Church to climax the observance. The Rev. Fletcher Spruce of the Canton First Church of the Nazarene will be guest speaker.

First U.P. Church Will Hold Ordination And Installation

The ordination and installation of elders-elect and the installation of trustees will feature the 11 a. m. worship Sunday at the First United Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Alexander K. Davison will speak on "Christ — Divider of Men."

Music will include the prelude, "Andante from B Sonata" (Mozart), with Mrs. Lloyd Cunningham as soloist, and a soprano solo, "Come Ye Blessed" (Scott-Deis), by Virginia Rigby.

Prayer group for all officers and teachers of the Bible School will meet at 9:25 a. m., followed by Bible School at 9:40.

The Junior Missionary group will meet at 6:30 p. m. with John Connell leader. Other groups meeting at the same time include the Fellowship YPCU with Jim Sayre leader, and the Pioneer YPCU.

"Paul—His Early Activities" will be the subject of the minister at the 7:30 p. m. service. Music will include a selection, "Air" (Gluck), by Mrs. Cunningham.

Organization meeting of the Session will be held Monday night at 7:30.

Hour of Power will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and Dr. Davison will continue the series on "Kings and Queens of Israel." His topic will be "Solomon, the Wisest Fool."

Pre-Sabbath prayer hour will be held next Saturday at 7 p. m.

Rep. Bettis Eyes Bill's Amendment

An amendment to a proposed revision of tax appeals is planned by Rep. J. Warren Bettis, according to a report of activities and plans of the Salineville representative.

Bettis, a member of the House judiciary committee, said the committee has studied House Bill No. 2 which permits appeals of decisions of the Board of Tax Appeals to be taken to District Appellate Court, easing the caseload of the Supreme Court which presently handles such cases.

However, Bettis said he favors permitting such appeals to be heard by Common Pleas Court, which he feels is in a better position to determine if taxes are reasonable or not.

The committee unanimously has recommended passage of a bill which would require county recorders to record land contracts, Bettis said, and is studying a proposed uniform fraudulent conveyances act which he feels is needed in a highly industrial state such as Ohio.

Bettis and his wife were guests of Governor and Mrs. Michael DiSalle at the mansion at Columbus Monday.

Names Of Blind, Deaf Requested

The assessor of Hancock County has appealed for the names and addresses of all deaf and blind persons in the county under 21.

Along with the degree and cause of the affliction in each case, the information will be sent to the West Virginia state superintendent of schools and to the superintendent of schools for the deaf and the blind.

The superintendents will immediately communicate with the parents or guardians of all deaf and blind persons mentioned in the assessor's report in an effort to enroll them into special schools.

"Anyone knowing of or connected with deaf or blind persons under 21 in the county may write or phone the assessor's office in the Hancock County Courthouse in New Cumberland," Anthony (Tony) Leon announced.

"The co-operation of all county residents in furnishing the information will be greatly appreciated," he said.

The blind and deaf youths apparently will be taught handicrafts in special schools.

Three Elephants Give Performance On Pike

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three elephants from the Mills Brothers Circus made an unscheduled performance on the Ohio Turnpike early today.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said it came about when the van carrying two jumbo-size and one baby elephant broke down with two flat tires near Brecksville. The elephants pranced around in the zero cold for about three hours while a search went on for large truck tires.

A service truck was dispatched to Cleveland to get the tires, which arrived at about 3:30 a. m. The truck broke down at about 12:30 a. m. while en route from Jefferson, Ohio, to Detroit. Two circus attendants were with the elephants to see that they didn't roam off.

The Rev. Frank Hare of the Beaver Valley United Presbyterian Larger Parish, which includes New Lebanon, West Beaver and Madison churches, has announced the church schedule for next week.

Ike To Leave Thursday For Gettysburg Farm

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will leave next Thursday for his Gettysburg, Pa., farm home after spending several days quail hunting in this area of exclusive plantations.

Eisenhower, who arrived at W. Alton Jones' Blue Springs plantation last Monday, plans more bird shooting for today. He hunted for 6½ hours during two field trips Friday and bagged several quail. The former president and his wife, who did not accompany him here, are planning a trip to California next month.

Board Discourages Beards For Centennial

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — One member of the board of education sports a goatee and another says he might grow a beard atop his balding head, so the board couldn't bring itself to outlawing beards on Pontiac school boys.

Instead, the board voted Friday to discourage student beard growing for Pontiac's centennial observance until the last two weeks of the spring semester. The main centennial celebration comes in June.

The board shied away from outright prohibition of beards in favor of "discouragement."

Compromise Nips NYC Conductors' Threatened Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike threat by conductors against the New York Central Railroad ended Friday when a compromise agreement was reached in a dispute over a second conductor on pullman trains.

A systemwide walkout had been scheduled for 6 a. m. Sunday. The railroad had announced it would not try to operate.

The order of railroad conductors and brakemen has been demanding a second conductor on sleeping cars. In 1958, the Central took over operation of its sleeping cars from the Pullman Co., and laid off 95 Pullman conductors.

Under terms of the settlement, worked out in federal mediation, the dispute will be shelved until April. When new timetables and manning sheets are drawn up. At that time, it management and the union cannot agree on additional conductors, the question will be decided by an arbitrator.

The New York Central is recovering from a shutdown last week, when train crews refused to cross picket lines set up by striking tugboat crewmen.

4 Members Of Family Killed In Car Mishap

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Four members of a family of six were killed today when their car slammed into a concrete culvert and rolled over several times in a field.

The family was en route from its Chicago home to Lansing for a weekend visit with relatives.

Dead were Dan Wallace, 39, a widower, and three of the five children who were riding in his car.

Calvin, 6, and Donna Marie, 1, were dead at the scene. Elizabeth, 17, died shortly after arrival at Jackson's Foote Hospital.

Dan Jr., 11, and Sam, 9, were in serious condition with multiple injuries and frost bitten legs.

Officers said the car left the highway on a slight curve, ran along a drainage ditch for about 300 feet and smashed into the culvert, which runs beneath U. S. 27.

Operations At Plant To End May Or June

CINCINNATI (AP) — The last 300 workers at the Sharonville plant of Electric Auto-Lite Co. have learned the deadline for end of plant operations is next May or June.

Officials of the plant which once employed about 700 production workers making auto bumpers reported Friday on plans to cease operations.

The company had reported six months ago it would close the Sharonville facility because auto companies now make their own bumpers and other parts.

A spokesman said Friday the Toledo-based firm will seek other jobs for employees.

The company also had a plant that once employed 4,200 in near-by Lockland. It ceased operations in 1958.

Rescue Copter Spots Wreckage Of Airplane

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—An Air Force rescue helicopter spotted the wreckage of a missing Indonesian airways plane on the side of the 6,000-foot Burangrang Mountain and reported no sign of survivors. There were 21 aboard.

The plane disappeared in bad weather Tuesday with a crew of 5 and 16 passengers including one American, Robert Ward, 34, of Hamilton, Ohio. Ward was an official of the International Cooperation Administration.

Georgetown Man Fined

NEW CUMBERLAND — Donald Kincaid, 26, of Georgetown was fined $10 and costs on a charge of failure to have his auto under control at a hearing Friday at 4 a. m. before Squire John D. Herron. The charge was filed by Hancock County sheriff's deputies at 3:40 a. m. after Kincaid's car went off the highway and crashed.

Schuck Receives Stay Of Execution

BEAVER — Arthur Schuck, 44, scheduled to die Monday in the Rockview Penitentiary's electric chair, received a stay of execution on a habeas corpus petition granted in Federal District Court at Pittsburgh late Friday.

The Beaver County district attorney's office was given until Feb. 29 to file an answer, although no hearing date was set.

Earlier Friday afternoon, the Pennsylvania Board of Pardons unanimously rejected a clemency plea filed in his behalf.

The recommendation will go to Gov. David Lawrence, who is opposed to death penalties.

Now imprisoned at the State Correctional Institution in Pittsburgh, Schuck was convicted of killing Vincent J. Quigley, a bartender, when he fired into his car April 27, 1958, also killing another and wounding a waitress. The state argued that Schuck fired because he believed one of the men was the husband of a woman with whom he was in love.

Citizens' Group To Air Lisbon Bond Proposal

LISBON — The Citizens' Council on Education in the Lisbon school district will meet at the high school Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

The group will give further study to the $350,000 bond issue the Board of Education is submitting in the primary May 2.

The bond issue will be used to construct a 14-room addition to the McKinley School to handle the growing enrollment.

2 Forced To Land Plane On Turnpike

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — Two men were forced to land their single engine airplane on the Ohio Turnpike 15 miles west of here Friday night, turnpike patrolmen said. Neither man was injured.

Eugene Hill, 43, of South Bend, Ind., said the plane's carburetor became iced and the engine began to miss. He and his passenger, Robert Birner, 26, of Toledo, were en route from Cleveland to Toledo.

FBI Arrests Man Who Didn't Show Up For Hearing

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A Toledo, Ohio, man who failed to appear for a hearing there on a charge of assault with intent to commit rape was arrested here Friday by the FBI.

John Raymond Van Buskirk, 38, was jailed in Little Rock pending a hearing on the federal warrant accusing him of flight to avoid prosecution on the assault charge. His bond was set at $35,000.

Charges also were filed against Buskirk in Knoxville, Tenn., alleging that he obtained by fraud, scheme or trickery approximately $8,000 from Mrs. Helen Barbara Allison. He brought her to Knoxville from her home in Indianapolis and married her two days before leaving the Tennessee city, the FBI said.

Agents said the $6,699.63 that Van Buskirk had in his possession when arrested may have been part of the money allegedly taken from Mrs. Allison four days ago.

Van Buskirk served time in Ohio Penitentiary on a forgery conviction and was paroled in 1959, the FBI said.

A Tribute

To Our Hospitals!

Someone once said that all well people should visit a hospital occasionally to see how fortunate they are! When a friend or loved one is being tenderly cared for in one of our hospitals, then we understand the great importance of these institutions. Staffed with doctors, nurses, internes and all manner of life saving equipment, the hospital is mercy headquarters for all who are suffering. We never cease to wonder at the modern miracles performed in our hospitals. Their works go largely unheralded. But their eagerness to bind up wounds and make men whole again goes on forever. What would we do without these havens of healing?

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Faith Helps To Shape Events

How mysteriously things happen in the lives of people who have the genius to be sufficiently simple to have great faith! During a visit to the Holy Land I was fortunate in forming the friendship of S. James Mattar. He has a most remarkable history. He is a Christian Arab now living in Jerusalem, Jordan. He was once an official of B a r c l a y s Bank.

DP. PEALE

But that was in the other part of the city, the part now lying within the boundaries of Israel. Like many other Arabs, Mr. Mattar lost his job and home and all his possessions in hostilities of over a decade ago. He and his wife with their eight young children escaped across the embattled border and made their way to Bethany in Jordan.

They arrived unharmed, but practically penniless. Dark days followed. A time came when Mattar had exactly two shillings to his name and no prospects of more money or any way of providing his family with food.

BUT THIS MAN had an unquestioning faith in God. Gathering his wife and children around him, he humbly asked God's blessing for each of them and prayed for guidance.

As he prayed he got the distinct impression that he was to take some empty baskets and go to the market place, accompanied by Samuel, his eldest son. So, picking up a basket, he told the boy to take one too and come along.

On the way to the market Samuel said, "But, Papa, we have no money."

Mattar simply told him, "This is what the Lord has told me to do."

At the market they sat down and waited for what would happen next. Presently a man came toward them through the crowd, greeting Mattar with the words, "How glad I am to see you! I have had you on my mind these days and wondered how I might locate my old friend."

It was a former employee of Barclays Bank. The two men chatted awhile. Mattar said nothing about the dire straits he was in.

But at length the other man, in a hesitant, embarrassed way, drew from his pocket a five-pound note — roughly the equivalent of 14 dollars U.S. money. He said, "Would it be presumptuous to think that perhaps you are and postlude, "Built on the Rocks" (Lorenz).

Youth Night will be held Monday after school. Auto repairs will soon get under way in the basement of the church with trained mechanics in charge, the pastor said.

Grace Church

"Religion In Action" will be the sermon theme of the Rev. Edward John Phinn at the Sunday morning worship at the Grace United Presbyterian Church.

Sunday School will meet at 9:45 a. m. with Frank Marshall in charge.

Boyce Methodist

"Three Open Doors" will be the topic of the Rev. Ronald Reaie at the 10:30 a. m. worship Sunday at the Boyce Methodist Church.

Junior worship and Church School will be held at 9:30 a. m. and members of the youth group having difficulties? I would like you to accept this for friendship's sake." Mattar was so overwhelmed that he could scarcely utter his thanks.

AS SOON AS young Samuel found himself alone once more with his father, he asked, "Papa, did you know that man was going to pass by?"

Mattar replied, "No, Sammy, I did not. We are in God's hands. You have just seen a demonstration of His providence."

The provisions purchased with the five pounds tided the Mattar family over until help reached them in the form of United Nations relief. Later on, Mr. Mattar found means of self-support.

Today he is comfortably well off. And he has the rare privilege of being keeper of the Garden Tomb, which is believed to have been the tomb belonging to Joseph of Arimathea in which the body of Jesus lay. He is one of my most spiritually inspiring friends.

Pondering Mr. Mattar's experience at the Bethany market place, I am struck by the thought that it could not have happened if he had not had faith enough to act as he felt he had been bidden in response to his prayer — even though he had no inkling what could come of going empty-handed to the market.

AMONG THE letters written to me by readers of this column, there is one which tells of how the writer's faith has been strengthened as the result of a period of deep trouble beginning about five years ago:

"I felt," the letter says, "as though I were in a dense, dark forest. In desperation I repeated the Lord's Prayer over and over, a dozen times a day. No spectacular events took place immediately. Little by little, however, I began to notice that always I could see one step ahead — and after I had taken that step, something would happen to enable me to see another step."

"A feeling came over me that some power was at work. I then began to think about God in earnest. I saw that in times of crisis something always happened that saved the day — not something planned by me, but some queer, unexpected circumstance. And I saw that the hard things in my life had worked for my good."

For a person with the faith and courage to deal with difficulties a step at a time and leave tomorrow's problems and decisions in God's hands, circumstances often seem to develop in strangely beneficial ways. Faith does not necessarily get us everything we want. But it does make good things possible which otherwise would not come to pass. It does shape events.

Takes Up Training Duties

Rev. Reinartz Will Seek 'Person-Minded' Ministry

The Rev. F. Eppling Reinartz, former pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, where his father, the late Dr. John G. Reinartz, served for many years before his son succeeded him in the pulpit, is the subject of an article by George W. Cornell, religion writer for the Associated Press. The author details Rev. Reinartz's background and aspirations as he assumes the presidency of the Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary. The article follows:

A man of rigorous intellect, the Rev. Dr. F. Eppling Reinartz gives first place to the tender touch. He's a pattern-breaker.

He's a practical planner, who prefers poetry. He's a moulder of institutions, who is interested in individuals. He deals with large matters but respects the small. He holds that success is to tend the failing.

"Pflicht" was the German word drilled into him in youth. "Duty."

"You don't shirk that."

This diligent, benign churchman, who has played a major role in the maturing of Lutheranism in America and in the growth of the Christian unity movement, took on a new task this month — training young ministers.

"We want to inculcate a person-minded ministry," he said, "a ministry that sees its obligations to human beings as individuals, one at a time, apart from all others."

In Dr. Reinartz's view, as he takes up his new post as president of Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary at Columbia, S.C., the modern emphasis on organizational affairs, instead of individuals, is undermining the church.

"The Christian movement," he said, "is losing its essential power as it becomes increasingly group and mass-minded instead of person-minded. It's the heritage of the age in which we live."

"The whole thought frame today is much less on the value of the individual and his eternal destiny, and more on bigness and power, which is alien to what the church has to say to people. 'We must personalize' the ministers' service."

Dr. Reinartz, for 14 years secretary of the United Lutheran Church in America and an influential figure in inter-church co-operative affairs, also has other firm, even revolutionary, ideas for shaping new men of the cloth.

"We want to implant in these young men the awareness that success is not necessarily success."

Under present pressures, he said, church leadership often is described in public functions, group statistics, in getting out general bulletins, arranging suppers, increasing attendance, on a sort of "restaurant business" basis of success.

"The Ministry," Dr. Reinartz said "must be big enough and strong enough to rise above these mechanical and artificial measurements of effectiveness."

Beyond this, he said, "I hope our graduates will be marked by measurements of effectiveness."

Beyond this, he said, "I hope our graduates will be marked very quickly by compassion" — by a constant concern for the lonely, the afraid, the neglected.

"One of the great hallmarks of religion ever since Jesus uttered the parable of the Good Samaritan has been an outgoing, healing ministry to the broken things of life."

This is the stamp, and guiding drive, of Pastor Reinartz. In fact, his early inclination was to become a doctor, able to relieve suffering directly. But a series of incidents convinced him of a greater need, expressed in a Goethe inscription over an archway at Harvard: "The Spirit Doth the Body Build."

A 6-foot, 190-pound man with an easy smile and courtly mien, Dr. Reinartz has filled many assignments in his 59 years, ranging from boyhood milliner's delivery boy and college trackman to pastor of churches in his hometown of East Liverpool and New York City, and later a top officer in his own church and an interdenominational bodies.

He and his wife, Isabella Martin Reinartz, have two married daughters and a son.

Besides Dr. Reinartz's scholarly pursuits, he plays the piano or organ, dabbles in writing verse and translating German poetry, likes to putter about his house with a paint brush, admires ladies' hats, and delights in classical music, good food and good poetry.

"The poets have the truth. Not the practical men," he said. "The practical men have led us down the road to war."

He says the ministry must be given a "creative touch, a sense of artistry" to lift it out of the "ho-hum formulae" that often characterize it.

As second-ranking officer of his denomination for more than a decade, Dr. Reinartz has dealt closely with problems of its 4,600 pastors and carried on voluminous correspondence with them. His letters are always signed, "Loyally yours."

In his new job, he wants his future pastors to acquire, beyond a "strong, accurate and adult" theological grounding, this lesson of loyalty to others:

"That when they leave a human situation of sickness, bereavement or need these words never pass their lips. 'If there is anything I can do, let me know.'"

"They are supposed to know what to do, just as a doctor or lawyer does, without being told. They must take the initiative. They are supposed to come to these situations with the tools, with understanding, with prayer, with words sharper than any two-edged surgeon's scalpel."

Sunday School will convene at 9:30 a. m. on the theme, "Why Christ Is Our Authority." Roland Edgar

BRIDGE TO GOD'S WORLD

The bridge, what a miracle! Tons of steel hanging in air . . . spanning miles of water . . . supporting an unending line of cars like so many ants.

And what a boon to man! The bridge saves untold hours and opens up new vistas of life.

The bridge of prayer, what a miracle! Spanning Heaven and Earth . . . carrying the needs and hopes of believing hearts. What a boon to man! The bridge of prayer opens up new paths of creative living and vistas into the realm of Heaven.

In Church you can discover prayer—the bridge which leads to God's world.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ohio Episcopal Diocese Slates Election Today

CLEVELAND (AP)—The 144th annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio ends today with election of diocesan officers, trustees and members of various diocesan committees and bodies.

Bishop Nelson M. Burroughs of the Ohio diocese stressed a church unity theme in his address at the opening session of the convention Friday.

"A united witness is long for among Christians who basically are already one in their confession of a common saviour and who can never long safely ignore his unquestionable will that we be one," Bishop Burroughs told the more than 500 persons here for the convention.

They are representatives of the 114 Episcopal parishes and missions in the 48-county Ohio diocese.

Bishop Richard M. Emrich of Detroit, head of the Michigan diocese, urged his church to "recover her ministry to the world," adding: "The Anglican Church is not a sect turned on itself and apart from the world. We are concerned with the world. Civic activities should be a large part of Episcopal activities."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Derda of Kenilworth, Newell, and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McLean of Edmonton, Alta., Canada.

Fr. Eugene Jacobs, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar background of white carnations and gladioli with candelabra. William Bourne, church organist, played the nuptial music.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father and she wore a floor-length gown of nylon tulle and bouquet taffeta. The Basque bodice was designed with a yoke of silk illusion, a square neckline, edged with Chantilly lace, and long sleeves pointed at the wrist. Appliques, embroidered with sequins, highlighted the gown.

The bouffant skirt was styled with rows of scalloped lace cascading into a chapel train. A full pleated skirt was worn over hoop underskirts.

She wore a princess crown of hand-cut crystals with a fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations, orchids and hyacinths tied with satin streamers featuring lovers' knots. Her prayer book was the gift of her cousin, Miss Theresa Zagula. She observed the traditions.

Miss Susan Ann Derda was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Fetty, Miss Susie Biela and Miss Zagula, all cousins of the bride.

They wore ballerina-length gowns of white silk organza with hand-clipped Chantilly lace applied on the bodice and hemline. The sleeves and bridal points at the wrist and a small bow accented the Empire waistline.

The maid of honor wore a cotillion blue crystal crown and those of the bridesmaids were in poude blue. They held theater veils. The maid of honor carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations tied with cotillion blue streamers and the bridesmaids carried white carnations.

D. Of A. Council 287 Marks 27th Anniversary At Dinner

The 27th anniversary of All-American Council 287, Daughters of America, was celebrated with a dinner Thursday night at the Travelers Hotel. Some 40 attended.

The tables were decorated with floral centerpieces. Favors were roses in bud vases. Placecards and program booklets featured the council motto of the American and Christian flags and an open Bible.

The group repeated the Lord's Prayer for the invocation. Mrs. Olive Rogers, deputy, gave the welcome and Mrs. Olive White, district deputy, the response.

Mrs. Lesley Tatgenhorst summarized the history of the organization. Charter members honored were Mrs. Sadie Lentz, Mrs. Sadie Dray, Mrs. Lillie Wucherer, Mrs. Mary Goodballet, Mrs. Jeanette Bloor and Mrs. June Davis, who received red roses. Mrs. Wucherer also was presented a 50-year pin, as she transferred from another lodge.

Mr. And Mrs. G. R. Durbin Return From Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. George Richard Durbin have returned from a honeymoon and are residing at 330 2nd St., Chester, following their marriage at 7:30 o'clock the evening of Jan. 6 at the First United Presbyterian Church in Chester.

The bride was Miss Linda Kay Pugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Pugh, 348 Carolina Ave., Chester, and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George A. Durbin, 1012 Pan Ave., Chester.

The Rev. Charles Donald Vogel, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with ferns, palms and candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews.

Mrs. Frank Richmond presented a half-hour recital of organ music. Mrs. Donald Murray sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of chantilly lace over taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline, embroidered with seed pearls, and long, pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was highlighted with lace inserts.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of white carnations, centered with an orchid and tied with satin streamers.

Mrs. Robert Pugh, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Thomas Cornell and Mrs. William Campbell were bridesmaids.

They wore street-length dresses of coral, styled with lace bodices and chiffon skirts. The fitted bodices featured scoop necklines and three-quarter sleeves. White feather hats and coral satin shoes completed their costumes.

They wore pearl necklaces and matching earrings, gifts of the bride. Their Colonial bouquets were

May Festival's Postponed Year

CINCINNATI (AP) — Directors of the May Festival, traditional Cincinnati choral music event, hoped to boost its money-making by postponing it one year and making some changes.

Samuel F. Pogue, new president of the festival board, reported Friday the biennial event next will be held in 1963.

He said composer Gian Carlo Menotti has been commissioned to write a choral cantata for the next festival.

Pogue said directors also want to hire as music director Max Rudolf, now conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra.

Plans are also to give concerts on Friday and Saturdays of two consecutive weeks instead of lumping the events together in one week, as done in recent years.

The board reported losses of $55,473 on the 1960 festival.

Cunningham Hits 33, But Potters Lose At New Philly, 69-67

Improved Wellsville Five Shaded By Salem In 47-43 Battle

Locals In Canton To Meet McKinley

NEW PHILADELPHIA — The devastating one-two scoring punch of East Liverpool's Kenny Cunningham and Kenny Miller wasn't enough Friday night as the Potters bowed to New Philadelphia, 69-67.

Between them, the two senior standouts hooked up for 55 points, but a Potter letdown early in the fourth quarter gave New Philly the opening it was looking for and the Quakers notched their third win in 11 games.

The Potters will now take a 7-3 record against Canton McKinley to tonight at the Canton Fieldhouse. Reserve squads from the two schools will meet at 7, with the varsity tilt slated for about 8:30.

Cunningham matched his previous high for the season by dropping in 33 points. He had the same number against Alliance in the season's opener. His total came on 14 field goals and five of six foul attempts.

Miller, the No. 2 man in the Potter scoring parade, hooped 22 points to share the spotlight.

East Liverpool couldn't buy a bucket early in the fourth quarter. The period opened with New Philly on top, 52-51, and its center, Jerry Smith, a 6-foot-3 junior who finished the night with 25 points, led a rally that shot the score to 61-51.

The Potters didn't score for the first three minutes and 20 seconds of the fourth quarter, then Ed Prentice hit to break the ice.

The Blue and White was dealt a blow when Cunningham fouled out with 1:51 still remaining in the game.

The clock showed 1:30 left and New Philly in front, 66-61 when Miller took things into his hands and scored a pair of fouls and a bucket to bring East Liverpool within one point, 66-65, with only 40 seconds left.

The Potters were forced to foul and Jerry Polka stepped to the line for the Quakers and dropped in two that gave New Philly a 68-65 lead with 33 seconds to go. He later made another foul to make it 69-65.

East Liverpool's Mike Geon scored with 11 seconds remaining, but New Philly went on to eat up the remainder of the time.

It was all Cunningham and Miller in the first half when the Potters went in front, 16-12 at the end of the first quarter and 36-32 at halftime.

Despite six buckets by Cunningham in the third quarter, New Philly tied the score at 47-47 late in the period. The count was deadlocked at 49-49, but when the period ended New Philly boasted a one-point edge, 52-51.

Smith led the Quakers' last quarter drive by slipping in six points when the Quakers scored nine straight.

Height hurt the Potters as Smith got loose for 11 field goals and added three of five fouls.

The Quakers actually picked up the victory at the foul line. East Liverpool won the battle of the field goals 27-24 but Philly dropped in 21 of 33 foul attempts.

Behind Miller in the New Philly scoring was Don Murphy, 6-foot-1, who tallied 15, and Jerry Polka with 12.

While Cunningham and Miller accounted for the majority of the Potter points, Geon added six and Perry Hurst four.

East Liverpool managed a split when the reserve team defeated the young Quakers, 51-46.

OSU, Purdue Battle Today

It'll be Ohio State and Jerry Lucas versus Purdue and Terry Dischinger when the two Big Ten basketball contenders clash at Columbus today in a regionally televised matinee.

Ohio State, the nation's top-ranked team, will be seeking its fourth conference triumph without defeat. The Buckeyes have won 13 straight this season and 18 in succession over a two-season span.

Purdue has a 3-1 conference mark and could pull ahead of Ohio State if the Boilermakers are able to engineer a victory over the heavily favored Buckeyes.

Lucas and Dischinger will be meeting for the first time since the two played on the U.S. Olympic champion basketball team in Rome last summer.

Lucas and Dischinger also are engaged in a battle for the league's individual scoring championship.

Lucas currently leads with a 29-point average to Dischinger's 26.5. Dischinger won the scoring title last year as a sophomore.

Only one other big ten game is scheduled and that finds Minnesota (2-3) at Northwestern (2-3) tonight. Three other conference teams will be up against outside foes.

DePaul will be at Indiana while Wisconsin and Illinois are featured in a doubleheader in Chicago Stadium. Wisconsin faces Loyola of Chicago and Illinois meets Notre Dame.

Lisbon Bows For 12th Loss

LISBON — The longest losing streak in the area continued unbroken at 12 games here Friday night as Lisbon High's Blue Devils were defeated by East Palestine, 60-47.

Coach Gary Pike's Devils played steady ball for almost the entire game and were only four points behind in the final period before bowing in a Tri-County League ray.

Four East Palestine performers collected double figures as the Bulldogs won their seventh game as against five losses.

Leading the way with 15 points each were Jim Hartshorn and McCloskey. Bush tallied 14 and Watt 10 to round out Palestine's attack.

Craig Pannier led Lisbon with 14 points, while Roger McCaughin added 12.

In the preliminary, the Lisbon reserves tripped East Palestine's reserves, 44-36.

Schaffer's 23 Feature For United Five

Jerry Schaffer, leading scorer in the Turnpike Conference, racked up 23 Friday night as United Local defeated Gnadenhutten, 58-40, on the United court.

Schaffer, a junior, netted 23 points on 11 goals and a foul shot to boost his season's total to 216.

His efforts led United to its third victory in 13 games. The Golden Eagles fired 43 per cent from the field in collecting 27 field goals to only 12 by the losers.

While having the league's top scorer, the Eagles remain in the lower half of the loop with a 1-1 record. Last night's victory came in a non-league outing.

Quakers Post 9th Straight Victory

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Though they deserved the victory from the standpoint of determination, Wellsville High's Tigers couldn't quite deliver the upset wallop as they lost a close, 47-43, battle to Salem Friday night.

Showing marked improvement in everything but marksmanship, the Tigers extended twice-beaten Salem to the limit before bowing in the last few minutes.

It was anybody's game from the very beginning, but the tall Quakers edged ahead to a slight lead late in the fourth quarter to gain the narrow triumph.

COACH JACK McDEVITT of Wellsville, throwing all his height into play and receiving a big boost under the boards from Rod Ferguson, 6-foot, 3-inch senior, watched his Tigers come through with perhaps their best performance of the year.

Even in defeat, McDevitt's rangy quint displayed plenty of indication that things may take a turn for the better after a number of unexpected losses early this year.

Bob Kiggins, 6-3 veteran forward, scored consistently, big Ferguson was a tower of strength under the boards and sophomore standout Steve Baldwin continued to show signs of developing into a real star at the pivot position.

All told, the Tigers proved to be a rather delightful surprise in their role of decided underdogs against the twice-beaten Quakers.

They battled Salem steadily throughout the first three quarters and were tied, 39-39, with 5:13 left in the final one.

Salem's Don Davidson, 6-5 senior, then put the Quakers ahead by one point with a free throw and sharpshooting Bob Eskay hit from the outside for a three point spread, 42-39.

THE QUAKERS huddled with Coach John Cabas for a time-out with 3:07 left. They held court until 1:28 remained when Bill Beery connected on a turn-around push shot to put Salem ahead, 44-39.

Kiggins retaliated with a layup with 1:18 left as the Tigers narrowed Salem's lead to 44-41. Then Davidson came through with a drive shot and Beery converted a foul for a 47-41 lead with only 30 seconds.

Wellsville's Ben Cannadate managed to hit a drive in the fading seconds to narrow the score to 47-43 and it ended up that way as about 1,700 fans in Salem's gymnasium roared approval at the performance by both teams.

The victory was Salem's 10th of the season.

Though not as classy as last year's outfit, the Quakers flashed a formidable one-two scoring wallop in Eskay and Beery, the latter only a sophomore.

Eskay's shooting of jump shots from the corners helped Salem remain in contention in the first half. He scored eight goals and two fouls for the action, finishing with 18. Beery, scoring 15, also played an outstanding floor game.

BIG DAVIDSON was employed in the back court, apparently a decoy, as his long push shots were far off the range. He scored nine, while center Ted Thorne, 6-5½, got only five. Starting guard John Borrelli failed to score.

Wellsville, getting the lion's share of the rebounds, could have used a little more scoring from Steve Baldwin and Roger Ours, who had trouble finding the range.

Kiggins topped the attack with 16 points, running his season's total to 172 for a 19.1 average. He was the only starter to hit double figures. Ours got nine, Steve Baldwin six and Ferguson and Cannadate five each. Phil Baldwin managed one field goal for the night.

The Tigers sank 15 of 51 shots, Salem 20 of 53 for a slightly better percentage. The Quakers hit six of their first seven attempts, then cooled off considerably. Wellsville had a bad third period, making only 2 of 13.

The defeat puts Wellsville under the .500 mark for the year with a 4-5 record.

The chief scorekeeper was subjected to one big decision as the buzzer signaled halftime just as Wellsville's Ferguson got off a push shot that whizzed through the hoop. He ruled the buzzer had sounded first, and the basket didn't count.

In the preliminary, Salem's once-beaten reserves encountered little opposition in crushing Wellsville's reserves, 55-28. The Salem quint has been defeated only once this year, by Akron Central.

South Siders Gain Mat Win

It was almost pin or no count for the South Side wrestling team which won its second straight by downing South Hills Catholic of Pittsburgh, 38-16, Friday night at Hookstown.

Bill Matchett started a parade of four straight pins in the 88-pound class. Other victories by falls were recorded by Gary Broadmerkel (95), Bob Tellish (112), Bill Miskuk (120).

Joe Tellish at 154 added the other pin while a decision went to Wilber King (180). Larry Miskuk battled to a draw in the 127-pound match and Rick Seik took the forfeit victory.

South Side travels to Burgettstown Wednesday.

'Operation Moonshoot' Features High Jumper

BOSTON (AP) — "Operation Moonshoot" — minus a couple of flaws — will be resumed tonight by high jumper John Thomas at the 72nd Boston AA track meet.

Thomas, preparing his revenge on one of the Russians who beat him at the Rome Olympics, is hitting his stride again.

Twice this week the 19-year-old Boston University student has cleared 7 feet, 2 inches. In his last outing two weeks ago John did 7-0 for his 53rd jump at that level or higher. But he had been in examinations just prior to that and had not been able to practice.

Beavers Bow At Toronto; Face S. Side

Beaver Local had a red hot not in the shooting department but couldn't quite make the grade in dropping a narrow 75-72 decision at Toronto Friday night.

Coach Jack Frontone's Beavers hit for an excellent 58 per cent but nevertheless dropped its third game in 11 starts. The Beavers return to action tonight when South Side invades the Williamsport gym.

Toronto came from far behind in the first half to win its sixth game in 10 contests.

With Beaver Local hitting an amazing 75 per cent in the first half, the Beavers took a 23-9 lead at the end of the first quarter and 48-39 at halftime.

However, Toronto came racing right back and outscored Beaver Local, 20-10, in the third period to lead 59-58, and then hung on for the victory.

Max Sherwood and freshman Tom Coulter were the big guns for the Red Knights. Sherwood dropped in 19 while Coulter tallied 17.

Bill Reed and Dick Barnhart were the two big guns for Beaver Local. Reed checked in with 19 points while Barnhart was right behind with 18.

Jim Pike, the fine outside shot for the Beavers, cashed in with 13 points.

Toronto wasn't actually cold last night. The Red Knights took 66 shots and canned 31 for a 47 per cent mark.

In the preliminary contest, the Toronto reserves picked up a 43-37 victory.

Bayer Leads At Frisco By Four Strokes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Long-hitting George Bayer went into the third round of the $50,000 San Francisco International Golf Tournament today with an imposing four-stroke lead.

Booming his drives 300 yards down the fairways of the 6,672-yard Harding Park Course, the former University of Washington football player convinced fans that his first round six-under-par 65 was no fluke.

Seven birdies highlighted his card as he blazed through his second round Friday in five-under-par 66 for a total of 131.

Bayer has earned only $114.29 on the pro tour this year. He was a hefty money winner in 1960, however, at $24,955.

Clustered at 135 were seven subpar shooters, including Charlie Sifford, only Negro player in the tournament, whose first-round 65 had put him even with Bayer at that point.

But Sifford said he "couldn't sink a putt" Friday and his two-under-par 69 enabled a half dozen veterans to overtake him.

Ted Kroll, who led the recent Crosby tournament by four strokes after three rounds and then blew himself out of contention at the finish; U.S. Open champion Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper Jr., Don January, Stan Leonard and Mike Souchak were bunched with Sifford.

Only one stroke back at 136 were young Al Geiberger, Ernie Vosler and Wes Ellis Jr.

Bob Rosburg, winner of the Crosby this year, Doug Ford and Phil Rodgers were grouped at 137.

Ken Venturi, Dave Ragan, Lionel Hebert, Dave Hill, Bo Wininger and Bud Holscher trailed with 138.

The field was sharply cut after Friday's round, with only 97 pro surviving along with six amateurs.

Cypryla Hearing Set On Assaulting Charge

CLEVELAND (AP)—A preliminary hearing has been set for Feb. 20 for Frank Cypryla, 32, of Akron, on a charge of assaulting two FBI agents. The agents had attempted to question him Jan. 18 about a bank robbery near Youngstown.

Cypryla was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner H. A. Horn Friday and demanded a hearing. Cypryla had engaged in a gun battle with federal agents and police in Youngstown after he disarmed an FBI agent. Less than a week later he was captured near Massillon after being wounded in another gunfight with officers. Cypryla was taken to county jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Guilty In Tax Evasion

CINCINNATI (AP)—A fine of $16,000 and a one year suspended sentence faces George C. Ritz, 55, of Hamilton on a charge of income tax evasion. Judge John Druffel set the sentence Friday in U.S. District Court after Ritz, an auto repair shop operator, pleaded guilty to four counts of evasion. The government contended there was a $12,810 difference in the amount of tax owed and the sum paid.

Kiger Nets 23 Points To Pace N. Cumberland

BRILLIANT — New Cumberland left here Friday night after scoring a 63-60 victory over Brilliant to register its 11th in 14 starts. Jim Kiger, a deadly outside shot, gave New Cumberland that push it needed by dropping in 23 points. New Cumberland led most of the way but had to fight off the Brilliant five in the last eight minutes.

New Cumberland led, 13-9, at the end of the first quarter then held to a 24-22 edge at halftime, and 43-42 when the third quarter closed. Scoring honors for the night went to Brilliant's Kolopajlo who wound up with an even 30.

Brilliant captured the reserve tilt by topping New Cumberland, 26-24. NEW CUMBERLAND—63

Commissioner Of NFL Seeks Change In Rules

NEW YORK (AP)—With decisions on a new television policy, and 1961 schedules and alignment still hanging, National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle was stumping today for a radical change in playing rules.

"I feel the present sudden-death rule — in effect in championship playoffs — is unfair to the team that kicks," Rozelle said while preparing for the final session of the four-day NFL meeting.

"I don't know how far I'll get. But I will propose a change so that both sides will have the same chance to score if and when we ever have a sudden-death overtime again."

Rozelle's idea is this. If in a sudden-death overtime, the team that receives the extra-period kickoff moves straight down to a score — either a field goal or a touchdown, the other team would be permitted to go on offense, take a kickoff, and keep playing until it has either scored or lost possession of the ball.

What happens if say Team A scores a touchdown and extra point and Team B takes the kickoff and comes straight back to tie the score without giving up possession?

"Another tie," said Rozelle, would mean another fresh start and more equal chances for both sides.

Under his proposal, the equal chance amendment would apply only if one team scored without the other team having had a chance to be on offense in the overtime. If there were an exchange of kicks, or if the ball changed hands by a fumble or interception, the first team to score would be the winner.

Further discussion of the possibility of shifting to a single package television deal for the league, schedule problems and whether to make Dallas and Minneapolis regular division members or to operate them as "swing" clubs was scheduled today.

U.S. Figure Skating Crown Won By Massachusetts Girl

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Laurence Owens, a 16-year-old miss from a championship family, is the new queen of United States figure skating.

The Winchester, Mass., high school senior glided over the ice in a brilliant free skating exhibition Friday night to take over the crown vacated by Mrs. Carol Heiss Jenkins, who turned pro to accept movie offers after winning the 1960 Olympic title.

Miss Owens lagged in second place after the compulsory figures skating but overcame that deficit with a display of creative artistry that sent her whizzing past Stephanie Westerfeld, 17, home town favorite from Colorado Springs who was in front after the figures.

Her mother is Mrs. Maribel

Vincent Owen, who won the national championship in the same senior ladies division nine times. Miss Owens' sister, Maribel Y. Owen, joined with Dudley Richards of Boston to win the senior pairs title Friday night.

Another Boston skater, 18-year-old Gregory Kelley, is leading the senior men's competition after placing first Friday in the compulsory figures.

Bradley Lord, 17, another Bostonian, finished second in the figures followed by the favorite, Tim Brown, 18, of Oakland, Calif.

The senior men compete in free skating tonight with the division winner taking the title vacated by David Jenkins, the 1960 Olympic champion who retired to devote full-time to medical studies and some professional appearances.

Ohio Class AA, Class A Champs Drop 1st Games

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Class AA and Class A basketball champions were beaten Friday night for the first time this season.

Victims of the upsets were Dayton Roosevelt in Class AA and Salem Local in the A division.

Hamilton Garfield stunned the Teddies in an 85-83 thriller that went two overtimes. Belle Center, behind Dick Ricketts' 44-point production, had an easier time disposing of Salem Local, 92-82.

The two losers are ranked first in The Associated Press weekly ratings. Garfield, beaten only by Portsmouth in 11 outings before Friday night, is ranked second. Belle Center dropped out of the top ten last week for the first time this season.

For Coach John Woolum's Teddies, it was their first setback in 37 straight games and their first loss in 56 regular season contests. Salem had run up a 45-game regular season winning streak and had won 37 straight, including tournament games.

Both losing teams played on the road Friday night.

Outlawed Irish Army Admits Killing Officer

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—The outlawed Irish Republican Army admitted today its gunmen shot dead a young Northern Irish policeman, charging he was a British spy.

The policeman, Norman Anderson, 26, was shot after visiting a girl friend on the southern side of the frontier between Northern and Southern Ireland.

The IRA is waging an underground campaign to drive the British out of Northern Ireland. The killing shocked Irishmen on both sides of the border.

Breaks Collarbone

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Sophia Loren fell in her apartment and broke her left collarbone Friday. The Italian actress had just completed work in the production of "El Cid," a story of the 11th century Spanish hero.

'Fair Trade' Law Hearing Set Tuesday

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A hearing will be held Tuesday on a bill in the Legislature to enact a new West Virginia "fair trade law." It would replace a law which was held unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court in 1958 after having been on the books 21 years.

The proposed new law was introduced in the House by the chairman of its Judiciary Committee, Del. H. Laban White Jr., D-Harrison. He introduced it for the West Virginia Small Business Association.

White's committee will hold the hearing on the bill, scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday.

The bill would make it unlawful to sell trade-mark or trade-name merchandise below the minimum price laid down by the manufacturer. Violators could be sued for damages or could be stopped by injunction from selling below the stipulated price.

One of the main classes of business affected would be the discount houses which sell advertised brand - name merchandise below established prices.

The Small Business Association said the bill was an effort to curb what it called "a form of deceitful, unfair competition which tricks the consumer, destroys small business and cheapens valuable trade marks and trade names."

But the bill may run into stiff opposition. President Miles C. Stanley of the West Virginia Labor Federation, AFL-CIO, said his organization had not yet studied or taken a stand on this particular bill. However, he added "that as a matter of policy, the AFL-CIO and the labor movement in general have usually opposed this type of legislation."

Stanley was one of those who asked for a hearing on the bill. He termed so-called fair trade laws "a corruption of the free enterprise system." The chief beneficiaries, he said, would be large manufacturers of hard goods such as appliances.

Without this type of law, he said, "the consumer has some opportunity in a competitive market to seek price relief on items which are the subject of competition."

Former Del. Luke Terry, legislative representative of the West Virginia Farm Bureau, said the organization was against the bill in principle, but added: "We don't plan to make a lot of noise about it."

Social Security Tax Is Unchanged

Social Security tax rates for old-age benefits still are 3 per cent, Melvin J. Burton, district director of Internal Revenue, today reminded employers in the Cleveland district.

Burton said he was issuing this reminder in response to a large number of calls he has received about an inset mailed with the Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return, Form 941.

"The inset called attention to an increase in the Federal Unemployment Tax from 3 per cent to 3.1 per cent applicable to wages paid on and after Jan. 1, 1961," Burton said.

He explained that this particular tax (FUTA) is paid entirely by the employer and reported to IRS on Form 940, Employer's Annual Federal Unemployment Tax Return. Employers of 4 or more individuals on at least 1 day of each of 20 weeks are those liable for this tax.

Burton said the social security tax remains the same, 3 per cent withheld from the employee's wages, and 3 per cent paid by the employer, or a total of 6 per cent. These rates apply to the first $4,000 of wages.

He said these taxes are reported quarterly on Form 941.

He also said the social security rate for the self-employed remains at 4 1/2 per cent.

Ex-Resident Promoted By U.S. Forest Service

A former East Liverpool man has been promoted to district ranger for the Glacier View District of Flathead National Forest in Montana.

He is Harold R. Howard, 32, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Howard of Hill Blvd.

The district comprises about 300,000 acres.

Howard was graduated from high school here in 1947. He then attended Montana State University, graduating in 1952 with a degree in forestry. From 1952 until 1955 he was in the Army as a platoon leader and company commander, including service in Korea.

He began working for the U.S. Forest Service as a trail crew man on Spotted Bear District in the summer of 1949. Following his Army service, he received a permanent appointment as a forester. Howard and his wife, the former Connie Sletten of Whitefish, Mont., reside at Hungry Horse, Mont. They have three sons.

Baking Operator Dies

I never saw a pink elephant...

until Baker's Coconut

Fluffy, flavory Baker's Angel Flakes! It's imagination in a box, because it gives you so many fanciful ideas—like Pink Elephant Cut-Up Cake: Just make two 9-inch cake layers.  Cut a 1½" ring from one  and then divide the ring for trunk and legs. Put 'em all together and spread with a fluffy pink frosting, then sprinkle with Baker's Angel Flake Coconut. Use a cookie for an ear, a mint and gumdrops for an eye, a licorice twist for a tail. Look inside the package for detailed directions and other wild ideas . . .

Despite Ingeborg's paralysis, doctors were able to remove her from the iron lung long enough for birth of her third child—a normal, healthy baby girl named Dolores.

I Am an "Iron-Lung" Mother

Twice she has left a respirator to deliver children; now she vows to leave it forever

By INGEBORG CULLY

FOR THE SECOND TIME since I was stricken with paralytic polio four years ago, doctors removed me from my iron lung last August for the birth of a baby.

For a moment, the team of six doctors let my husband, Army Sgt. Jack Cully, press my useless hand. I knew that for every labor pain I endured, he was undergoing threefold torments.

Through a tube inserted in my neck, oxygen was forced into my lungs during the hour it required to deliver the beautiful baby girl we named Dolores. Next, I dimly remember being rolled back into the iron lung which has been my prison since July 16, 1956, the day before I gave birth to my first son, Jackie.

Today the fears I lived with for months have been replaced by the joys of having a healthy infant girl. And now with my loved ones around me again and with kind neighbors to help, I feel on the threshold of a new career—taking care of my family and of our home in New York City.

I know this career won't be easy. Except for a little movement in my legs, I am paralyzed from my neck down. But since God in His bounty has given us another baby, I am determined to show my gratitude by becoming a homemaker again.

Certainly I am far better off than I was. For one thing, the March of Dimes of the National Foundation has spent almost $25,000 to bring me to the point where I can think about doing things for others instead of the other way around. Today I can breathe by means of a chest respirator while in my wheel chair or rocking bed, instead of living in the iron lung. And I pray for the success of an experimental artificial muscle which may permit me to move my arms and hands some day.

There already are some things I can do at home. If he holds up the book, I can read aloud to Jackie. And with one foot, I can gently prod him on his bottom when he's naughty. I tutor Helen, 10, our oldest child, with her homework, often while she's combing my hair or exercising my fingers. With National Foundation aid, I have taught myself to use an electric typewriter, using a "mouth stick" to write my parents in Berlin, Germany, where I met and married my GI husband 11 years ago. I can even switch on the TV set with my toes.

These activities may seem meager, even trivial, but I feel they are hopeful steps toward the day I will leave my wheel chair and walk beside my husband and children.

That day I will be a real homemaker again.

With the aid of a chest respirator, Ingeborg can sit up while she tutors her oldest child, Helen, who is now ten.

God... Or The Greatest Fraud That Ever Lived!

Most people will agree that Jesus Christ was a great man... that He was an inspired spiritual leader... that He performed miracles never performed before or since His time by anyone else.

But today... as at Christ's trial before the high priest Caiphas... many are unwilling to accept Our Lord's claim to be the divine Son of Almighty God.

For nearly 2,000 years the Catholic Church has maintained that, as Jesus claimed, He "and the Father are one." Based on what He said and did... what He claimed and what He fulfilled... He had to be the Son of God or the greatest fraud that ever lived.

Prophecies scattered through the books of the Old Testament, written as long as 1,000 years before Christ's birth, describe the family from which he was to come... the circumstances of his birth... his life of preaching and miracles... and finally, his birth and death for the sins of mankind.

All these prophecies apply to only one man in all the annals of human history—to Jesus Christ alone.

If we are to accept Christ as the center and essence of our religious faith, the least we can believe of Him is that what He said was true. And under cross-examination by Caiphas, when asked to declare if He was "the Christ, the Son of God," Our Lord replied: "Thou hast said it" (Matthew 26:63, 64).

A man who only claims to be the Son of God could not have done the things Jesus did to prove it. No mere human being could walk on the waters, still the waves, cleanse the lepers, restore sight to the blind, bring the dead back to life. One who only claimed to be divine could not have returned from the grave as Christ did.

The whole foundation of the Christian religion rests upon God's promise to send His only begotten Son to redeem a sinful world. He did not promise to send merely a gifted preacher, or a pious leader—but His Own Son. And no lesser person's sacrifice, however noble, would have been sufficient to achieve the redemption of man.

What do you think of Christ? Wouldn't you like to know more about Him and what His birth and life and death mean to you and your own immortal soul? If so, write today for our free pamphlet entitled: "His Name Shall Be Called GOD WITH US." It will be mailed in a plain wrapper; nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. FM-55.

A Woman's Misfortune

Her hair style wasn't specific,
Her make-up scheme was horrific,

Her dress was too long and ruffled,
In fact, she looked rather muffled;

Her hat must've come from the attic,
Her laughter sounded like static,

But pause before you deride her—
She had no daughter to guide her!

Quips and Quotes

Much against his conscience, an office worker bought a sweepstakes ticket from a fellow employee. It turned out to be the winning ticket, and he was informed that he would soon receive $50,000.

"I didn't work for this money," the troubled man told his wife. "It is an ill-gotten gain, and I don't know if I should accept the $50,000."

After a long discussion, the wife said, "If it's going to bother you so much, why don't we go to the minister tomorrow night and ask his advice?" He agreed, but the next night when he came home, he found his wife dressed in a new gown, hat, and shoes, with a full-length mink coat carefully draped over her arm.

"I thought we were going to the minister's tonight," he said.

"We are—but you don't want me to go looking like a poor woman, do you?"

Officials in a Russian village roused everybody from bed one morning. "It's election time," they shouted. "Everybody to the polls!"

Dutifully, the citizens paraded to the balloting area and cast their votes. But one old man was curious. "What am I voting for?" he asked.

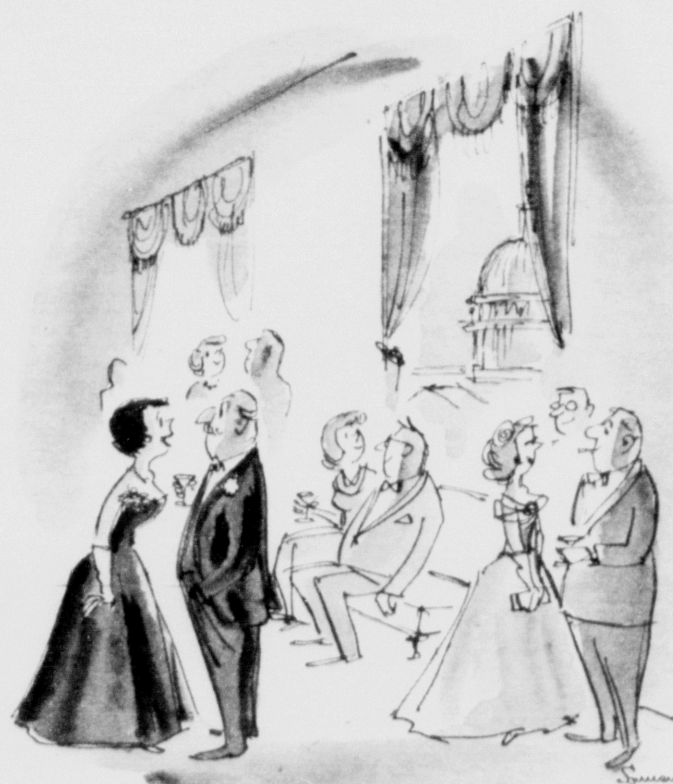

"Are you crazy?" an official replied. "Don't you know this is a secret ballot?"

"All those trouble spots you've been sent to, were they trouble spots before you got there?"

Nobody was happier to see Johnny start to school than his parents. In his short life, he had left the house a shambles and his parents nervous wrecks. For several days, peace reigned during the school hours. Then one day the phone rang and a man identified himself as the school principal.

"Frankly," he told the mother, "young Johnny is more than we can handle. I'm forced to ask your help."

"Listen," she replied, "all those years I had him alone—did I call you for help?"

PHOTOGRAPH BY BILL BRIDGES

Nobody Really Knows Me—

I CAN STILL SEE myself, age three, walking into the big auditorium in my home town of Richmond, Va., for my first dancing lesson. There were three boys and 25 girls. And, of course, the mothers gleefully watching their offspring. I loved it!

It has been said that I went into show business because I've always been an extrovert or because my mother, who used to act in little theaters in Toronto, Canada, and later taught dramatics at Maryland College, wanted to see her own ambitions realized through me.

The truth is that I got into show business because I was born with weak ankles and couldn't walk straight! When I was three, Mother enrolled me for dancing lessons, strictly for orthopedic reasons. Rather than make it obvious and make me apprehensive about taking corrective measures, she convinced me what fun it would be.

She was right! I loved appearing before an audience. But now that I look back—and I didn't feel this at the time—I think I did so well because I must have been a lonely child. The audience became my friend.

A year later I gave my first public performance at the Mosque Theater and learned a very important lesson. I accidentally tripped on the curtain and everybody laughed so hard that I kept tripping through the rest of the show. I should have gotten wise and left ballet for acting right then!

Instead, I went right on figuratively knocking myself flat to become a dancer, having a lot of laughs and cries in doing so but never quite making people know me—the real Shirley MacLaine, not the one in gossip columns or fan magazines.

Well, maybe I am hard to understand at first. I have a wonderful marriage with a man whose business keeps him thousands of miles away most of the time; my career is at a high point, yet I'm subject to moodiness and depression. I'm supposed to be a friend of the most exciting people in Hollywood, yet I'm still lonely.

Despite all this, I don't think I'm any more complicated than anybody else, and maybe my own story—unadorned by malicious gossip or laudatory press-agentry—will prove it.

That early taste of audience approval, for example, led me to a lonely and different life right from the start. I tried to make friends, but my schedule was so crowded there just wasn't time. When I was in school I got up at six, took the bus at seven, started classes at eight. I finished school at noon and went straight to cheerleader practice, or one of the many other activities I volunteered for. Those lasted until 4; next I would rush to my dance lessons; home for dinner at 7:30; then rehearsals until midnight. It's easy to see why today's hectic schedule doesn't bother me.

In spite of the fun I got out of dancing, it wasn't everything to me. If I hadn't broken into show business, I might have become a physicist. I majored in physics in high school and would have taken it in college if I had continued my formal education.

I always had a great desire to learn—undoubtedly my father's influence—but the desire to entertain was greater. My father was in education before he became a band leader, and then turned to the real-estate business. That part of his life was not lost on me, either. Dad, who is still in real estate in Virginia, claims I could have done as well in his field as in mine, maybe because of what happened when I was 12 or so.

DAD WAS "SITTING ON A HOUSE" one weekend—which means he was waiting in a car and keeping an eye open for prospective buyers for a certain home. I told him cockily that if he could sell a house, so could I! Dad wanted to step out for some coffee anyway, so good-naturedly he said, "I'll let you watch the house for me, and if you show it to a buyer I'll give you 10 percent of my commission." He left both me and his half-smoked cigar in the car and walked off.

I had never smoked before—but then I had never sold a house, either. So I put the cigar in my mouth and had just lighted it when a family walked into the house. I rushed in after them. By the time I caught up with them, I was so green and coughing so hard that they must have taken me for a lung patient. I staggered ahead of them and, between coughs, described the home in glowing terms. Two days later they bought the house, but I've yet to get my commission from my father!

He more than made up for it, however, when he helped me get started in New York. I used a summer vacation to try out for the chorus in the revived "Oklahoma!" and Dad paid all the expenses until I got the job.

The years in New York were neither as easy and fun-filled nor as miserably difficult as they have sometimes been described. I moved into an apartment hotel for girls only. No male visitors were allowed above the lobby, and the doors were locked at 11:30. It

Except ME By SHIRLEY MacLAINE

She's the most talked about and least understood star in Hollywood—possibly because she has never before revealed so much about herself and her marriage

Easy to handle. Any General Motors dealer who uses GMAC can finance your car, your car insurance, also creditor life insurance, all in one convenient transaction.

cost $25 a week, which my father paid until I started to earn money on my own.

I didn't stay there long. Not that I minded the restrictions, but when I got into a show which wasn't over until 11:15, I couldn't possibly get my make-up off and be home before the doors closed. So I moved into my own apartment.

For a while I did very well financially by doing commercials for a traveling trade show. I was one of a group of girls dancing around refrigerators during one-night stands, usually at conventions and in theaters. I was doing it illegally. I was only 17 at the time, and you had to be 21 to travel with a show, but I fibbed about my age.

Actually, I should have grown up in a hurry with all those balding, middle-aged customers who try to play Romeo with traveling show girls. I was terribly naïve about things like that. If someone asked me to a movie, I went along thinking I'd see a movie. Live and learn! Since I was bigger than most of the fellows I met, I was quite safe, however.

Which brings me to the part of my life that causes the most talk and raised eyebrows—my love life, my marriage. It seems to be such a puzzle not only to newsmen but even to my friends. But as you will see, it's not so unusual.

I love my husband more than anyone or anything in the world, and I happen to believe that if there is a compromise to be made in marriage, it's up to the wife to make it. My husband, Steve Parker, has very definite ideas about his work and about this world we live in. I go along with almost everything he's doing—maybe because I agree with him; maybe because he's my husband and I love him.

You see, Steve feels that in Asia there is a fantastic movie and television potential that hasn't begun to be tapped yet. He believes that all this will be of great interest to our Western world. In 1956 he went to Japan to begin his dream. We had been married for two years. I had just told him that Sachie (her real name is Steffie) was on the way. I've never told Steve this, but I've always felt that it was this news that gave him the impetus to go there.

The first couple of years he divided his time between his new work and endless conversations with me on the long-distance telephone, telling me how lonely he was, wondering if I was lonely, too, and questioning whether or not we both had bitten off more than we could chew.

Before long (long ha! It took two years!), things began to pay off. He made two experimental Japanese short subjects and won awards with both.

In the meantime, my career began to catch on, too. But if I had a quarter for every time I thought of giving it up to be with him, I'd give Rockefeller a run for his money! Each time I began to feel I couldn't stand being alone, Steve would step in and say, "You'd look back on that decision and blame yourself the rest of your life for not having the character to go through with what you set out to accomplish."

So I stuck to my guns. So did he. And the newspapers had and are still having a field day!

I never have been one to get sticky and sentimental publicly over my personal life, so when I was in Europe a few months ago and the English press asked me how I managed to stay married, I got flip and said, "Because we don't live together." Did that raise eyebrows!

Sachie Becomes a Traveler

One of my gravest concerns with the separation has been the effect it might have on Sachie. Maybe I'm only justifying things, but I think Sachie not only has accepted our situation in a healthy manner but is thriving on it. I never left our country till I was over 21. She has been around the world three times, and she's only 4½. When she comes home from Japan, she speaks fluent Japanese to our housekeeper who speaks only Spanish, and our housekeeper speaks fluent Spanish to me, but I only speak English! Nobody knows what's going on in that house half the time.

Our daughter Sachie is named after another very special little girl whose name was Sachiko. She was three years old and a Japanese, and Steve met her in Hiroshima. Her parents were dead, and the rest of her family had died of radiation sickness. She was alone in the world. When Steve found her, he didn't know her name. For some reason she was always smiling, so he named her Sachiko because that means "happy child" in Japanese.

He fed, clothed, and nursed her, and took out formal adoption papers in order to bring her back to this country. But she died, too—of radiation sickness.

Sachiko's tragic life perhaps makes my separation from Sachie all the more painful. Take that time a year ago when I took Sachie to the airport for one of her "alone" trips to see her Daddy. She was going to spend Christmas with him. I was making a film and couldn't go. I knew I would be spending the holidays alone again, but that wasn't really what made me cry. It was Sachie. As I began to leave her, she looked up at me and said, "Don't worry, Mommy, I won't cry. And you shouldn't cry, either, because Daddy and I will call you on the telephone and say, 'Merry Christmas!'"

Happily, I believe this present separation from Steve is nearly at an end. We are finally going to make our first picture together—in Japan. It will be called "My Geisha."

If there ever was a time for me to feel happy and secure, I suppose it's now. I think a few years ago I was afraid our successes would end somehow, and we'd be left with nothing.

I don't feel that way now—not because our careers are going well, but because I've come to realize what's really important in my life—my husband and family. If I never worked again, I'd still be left with a gold mine.

The only thing I can't figure out is—shall I try to erase the last 4½ lonely, hectic years or shall I always remind myself that that's how I got to be what I am today?

What Bird Is It? By Ruth Dixon

Let's Draw a Garter Snake

By Ann Davidow

Some people make the sad mistake
Of running from a garter snake

Who squiggles fast along the ground
Or sits so nicely coiled around.

Be friends with him because —it's true—
He's really more afraid of you!

Rules for Contest

Guess the bird's name and color the picture neatly in its true colors. Send within one week to Ruth Dixon, Junior Treasure Chest, Family Weekly, P.O. Box 7740, Chicago 80, Ill. Be sure to send your name, age, and address with your page. Prizes will be awarded to two boys and two girls for the best entries.

Here is a big, powerful bird who lives with his wife, and year after year they go back to the same nest. It is built in high trees near a sea, lake, or river. They keep adding to this nest each year until it grows very, very heavy. Some of these birds' nests finally weigh as much as a ton!

For thousands of years a bird something like this one was called "King of Birds" and used as an emblem of courage and power. Empires used his picture on their coat of arms. He is the national bird of America, and his picture is found on the President's flag, the United States seal, and on some of our money.

This is a sea bird with a wingspread of eight feet. Often he chases an osprey and scares him into dropping a fish he's carrying and then dives for and catches it before it hits the ground. He also eats small animals and reptiles and feeds them to his wife while she looks after the two or three white eggs. Have you ever seen one of these birds that soar so high? Notice his powerful claws and his long, curved, strong bill. It is against the law now to hunt this bird in the United States. His scientific name is Haliaeetus Leucocephalus. What's his everyday name?

Those Talented Machines— How They'll Run Your Life

There's almost nothing that today's electronic brains can't do better—and faster—than you can!

By CARL BAKAL

SEVERAL MONTHS AGO, the Air Force unveiled a machine with a most extraordinary talent: a mechanical translator capable of turning Russian into English far faster than any human being can. Whereas the average human needs quite a time to translate a page of Russian into English, the new device can do the same job in just 30 seconds!

The high-speed translator is, of course, that highly complex device known as a computer or "electronic brain." The heart of computers of this type is an elephantine memory mechanism in which are stored—in the form of some code—all the information and instructions needed for the job to be performed. In the case of the translator, the memory mechanism is a 10-inch, disk-shaped glass "dictionary" which contains a 55,000-word Russian-English vocabulary in the form of concentric tracks of black and white spots, each representing a word or phrase.

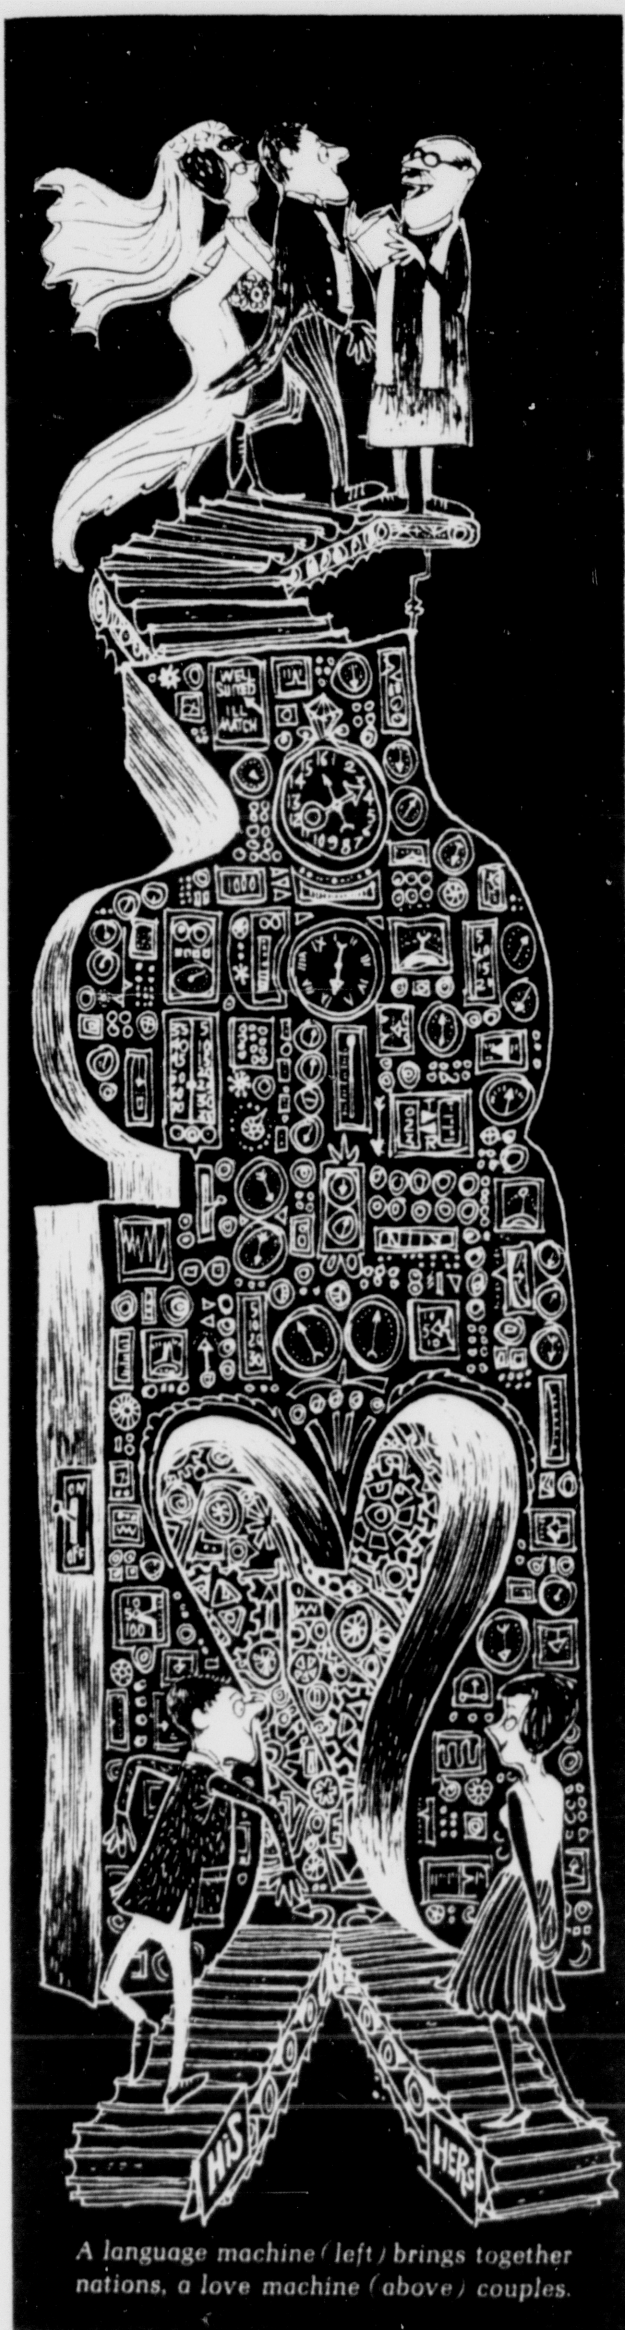

Electronic brains have been doing intricate tasks like this for years and promise to have a greater and greater impact on your everyday life.

In what may well presage a mechanical matchmaker of the future, stunt-master Art Linkletter some years ago used Univac, one of the electronic brains, on his "People Are Funny" TV show to match a young couple according to various characteristics. Univac has so far proved to be as reliable as a Cupid as it had previously been in predicting election results. For the machine-sponsored romance blossomed into marriage, and the Univac couple turned up on the Linkletter show recently to celebrate their first anniversary.

Whether machines will ever be devised to mend broken hearts is questionable, but electronic brains have already proved their ability to diagnose physical ailments relatively as well as physicians working with the same information. Into an IBM computer some years ago were popped punched cards summarizing the symptoms of 350 patients. Each card was coded on the basis of a questionnaire filled out by the patient.

The machine correctly identified 48 percent of the patients' ailments. A physician,

I was just thinking...

GRANDDADDY was a failure. When he died, he left nothing much more than a roof over my grandmother's head. And he died far from the roots of his birth, far from those who had known him for very long.

He started out as a teacher in a hill-country school. Grandmother was one of his pupils. But they couldn't live on a teacher's salary, so he turned to storekeeping.

I suspect Grandmother was the real guiding force, though Granddaddy sometimes went to market without her and sold shoes and managed the grocery department and worked long hours. I don't remember him in the days of his wedding picture with the thick mustache and the wavy brown hair. When I met Granddaddy, he was bald, but the brown eyes Grandmother loved were still bright and the chuckle was still contagious and the heart grew larger with the years.

Granddaddy lost the store to those who took advantage of his heart and chuckle and never paid him their bills. He lost the family home and the building. He and Grandmother moved to our town and started over again at retirement age.

That was a mistake, too. Granddaddy opened a little loan company. He was eager to lend money to the unfortunate, impractically reluctant to ask for it back again. He couldn't bear to collect on a loan, so he didn't.

When he died, the loan company was a frail wraith. The old car which ran like a wheezy sewing machine was sold, and the debts were paid with the family's help.

Of the two, my grandmother was the more unforgettable. A long time goes by without anyone in the family even mentioning Granddaddy's name. Then perhaps someone recalls how life defeated him and how little he complained.

He was gentle and peppery and happy, even in humiliation. He was a simple man, Granddaddy.

If this is failure, it cannot be so bad.

Patty Johnson

Can Electronic Brains Be Taught to Think?

after studying the questionnaires, had managed only 43 percent correct diagnoses!

Future models of such "health meters" small enough to be worn by the user could eliminate the need to visit the doctor, predicts one electronics expert. The information from the meter could be relayed to the doctor by telephone. Additional refinement of these machines might even make the doctor unnecessary, one physician jokingly suggests. Instead of the machine yielding a diagnosis, out would pop a prescription!

Another startling new concept in automatic machinery is the TransfeRobot. This one-armed robot performs many routine tasks involving parts handling, assembling, and machine operating. It can be "taught" to perform these tasks in any sequence.

In a notable switch to automation, a big Port Arthur, Tex., oil refinery last year became the first petroleum plant to employ full-time computer control. Formerly, plant employees had to read and interpret a host of gauges and meters. Now all this information is fed into the brain, which virtually runs the refinery, processing data from 110 sources to control 16 different pressures, flows, and temperatures.

In the coal industry, a robot mining machine drills 1,000 feet underground while the operator at the controls of the electronic brain remains on the surface. One machine used by a San Francisco auto-parts dealer keeps an automatic credit check on customers. If an order exceeds the customer's credit limit, the machine automatically places the order on a C.O.D. basis.

With a $100,000 electronic brain now being readied to scrutinize Federal income-tax returns, you'll also have to be more careful than ever in figuring out your taxes. One state recently used its electronic equipment to ferret out a group of heirs who owed a $75,000 inheritance tax.

But Can They Think?

Whether the "brains" can really be taught to "think" for themselves has long been a matter of heated debate among semanticists and scientists. The answer, of course, depends on what is meant by "think."

"It is false to assume that a machine cannot possess any originality," contends Dr. Norbert Wiener, professor of mathematics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and generally regarded as the high priest of these talented machines.

Given a certain set of instructions, machines are capable of highly creative results. One computer, using its stored set of rules of musical note sequences and harmony, was able to compose fairly good, or at least original, pieces of music.

Machines have been taught to play sophisticated games of checkers, chess, and bridge—and to improve their playing with experience. One computer successfully proved about 300 theorems in logic, while another was taught to solve problems in trigonometry, algebra, and geometry.

That computers will make 80 to 90 percent of industry's executive decisions in the near future was predicted recently by D. B. Paquin, president of the National Machine Accountants Association.

It's still too early to say what effect all this will have on your job. Some pessimists feel that it might demoralize humans not only to be taking orders from machines, but also to fear the possibility of their eventually being replaced by mechanical "scabs." On the other hand, most authorities believe that automation won't create a shortage of jobs, although it could very well change the nature of many. And, as they also hopefully point out, humans will always be necessary to make the machines—that is, unless this job is taken over by machines, too!

They'll Be Homemakers, Too

"In the 1970s, the American home will probably be run by an electronic brain that wakes the children, gets breakfast, turns on the bath water, and warms up the car," predicts Dr. Anna L. Rose Hawkes, president of the American Association of University Women. "But an electronic robot will never take the place of a housewife. There still has to be someone to push the buttons."

Housewives will have a helper to look forward to in the form of a "mechanical maid," now being developed, which will dart out from the wall at the push of a button to scrub, rinse, and dry the floor automatically, moving in a predetermined pattern. Another member of the push-button kitchen, also experimental, will be a self-propelled serving cart which will deliver silverware and plates to the dining table. After dinner, this silent butler, stacked with the dirty dishes, will return to its hiding place in the wall, where it will dispose of the scraps and wash the dishes!

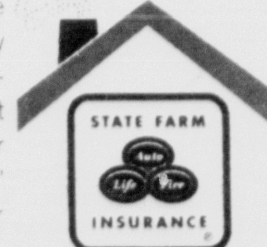

Other such machines could revolutionize the handling of mail so you might get a letter in a matter of hours. One experimental machine is serving as a mechanical postman by reading printed and typed addresses on envelopes, and sorting them into more than 40 destination slots at the rate of 10,000 letters per hour. New models already in the works will even be able to read handwritten addresses.

Even more remarkable is the prospect of machines that hear. Impossible? Only recently, RCA demonstrated a machine that understands 10 spoken syllables, is now working on another that will convert 100 speech sounds into writing. Even the chore of letter-writing will be easy: you'll be able to talk your letter into a voice-controlled typewriter. You may even be able to bark a number at your telephone and have it do the dialing for you. The ultimate in telephones or mechanical translators is also not too hard to imagine: you speak in one language, and it comes out in another.

Swiss Rice Ring

To intensify the sweet, subtle flavor of Swiss cheese in this rice ring, serve with Swiss Cheese Sauce. For a sharper flavor, serve with Cheddar Cheese Sauce. Combine your favorite cooked vegetables with either sauce and fill the center of the ring before serving.

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN.

TO HEAT: 10-15 MIN.

- 3 cups hot cooked rice
- 8 oz. (about 2 cups) shredded Swiss cheese
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 4-oz. can Vienna-style sausages

1. Lightly toss hot rice, cheese, and green pepper together. Gently pack mixture into a buttered $5\frac{1}{2}$ -cup ring mold.

2. Cut sausages lengthwise into halves and insert evenly around outer edge of rice. (See photo.) Cover with aluminum foil.

3. Heat in a 300°F oven 10 to 15 min., or until thoroughly heated. Unmold onto a heated platter.

About 6 servings

Cheddar Cheese Sauce

TO PREPARE AND COOK: 20 MIN.

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon thyme
- $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento, drained
- 8 oz. (about 2 cups) shredded Cheddar cheese

1. Heat butter in a 2-qt. saucepan. Blend in a mixture of flour, thyme, and cayenne pepper; heat until mixture bubbles. Remove from heat and add milk gradually, stirring until blended. Return to heat, bring to boiling and cook, stirring constantly, 1 to 2 min. longer. Cool slightly.

2. Add pimiento and cheese all at one time and stir rapidly until cheese is melted. Blend sauce with cooked vegetables. About $2\frac{3}{4}$ cups

Swiss Cheese Sauce

TO PREPARE AND COOK: 20 MIN.

- $1\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoons butter
- $1\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoons flour
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon paprika
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup milk
- 3 to 4 oz. Swiss cheese, cut in pieces

1. Heat butter in a saucepan. Blend in a mixture of flour, salt, and paprika; heat until mixture bubbles. Remove from heat and add milk gradually, stirring until blended. Return to heat, bring to boiling and cook, stirring constantly, 1 to 2 min. longer. Cool slightly.

2. Add cheese all at one time and stir rapidly until cheese is melted. About 1 cup

Nutmeg Cake

Mix 2 to $2\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons ground nutmeg into dry yellow cake mix. Prepare and bake cake according to package directions. When cake has cooled, frost with caramel frosting mix prepared according to package directions.

Family Weekly Cookbook • MELANIE DE PROFT, Food Editor

Served to the family or for a special-occasion luncheon, this Swiss Rice Ring provides an interesting entree.

Orange Cream Pie

TO PREPARE AND COOK: ABOUT 30 MIN. TO CHILL: ABOUT 3 HRS.

- 1 3-oz. pkg. vanilla pudding mix
1 3-oz. pkg. orange-flavored gelatin
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water
1 cup cream

1. Prepare and cook pudding mix according to the directions on the package. Remove from heat. Immediately add the gelatin and stir until completely dissolved. Blend in the water, then the cream. Chill until mixture mounds when dropped from a spoon.

2. Turn mixture into Saltine Pie Shell. Chill until firm, about 3 hrs.

Enough filling for a 10-in. pie

Saltine Pie Shell

Crush enough saltine crackers (about 40) to yield $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups crumbs. Turn crumbs into a bowl and mix in $\frac{1}{3}$ cup sugar. Using a fork or pastry blender, blend in $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter, softened. Turn mixture into a 10-in. pie pan; press evenly against the side and bottom of pan. Bake at 375°F 8 min. Cool.

One 10-in. pie shell

Potato Rolls

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN. TO BAKE: ABOUT 20 MIN.
(allow time for rising)

- 1 cup cooked instant mashed potatoes
1 14½-oz. pkg. hot roll mix

1. Prepare roll mix according to package directions for richer dough. Add warm potatoes to yeast mixture and stir until blended. Knead dough; let rise until doubled, 30 to 45 min.

2. When dough has doubled, punch down and turn onto a lightly floured surface. For each roll, shape 1 tablespoon of dough into an oblong about 2½x1 in. Pinch ends to make points. Transfer to lightly greased baking sheets; brush tops with a mixture of 1 slightly beaten egg and 1 tablespoon water.

3. Cover with waxed paper and allow rolls to rise until double in size, 30 to 60 min.

4. Bake at 375°F about 20 min., or until golden brown.

About 32 rolls

Walnut Biscuits

Prepare rolled biscuits according to directions on biscuit-mix package, using $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk and $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups biscuit mix blended with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup finely ground walnuts.

About nine 2-in. biscuits

Apricot Chiffon Pie

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN. TO CHILL: 2-3 HRS.

- 1 9-in. pastry shell, baked and cooled
(use your favorite pie-crust mix)
- 1 1-lb., 14-oz. can peeled apricot halves, drained (reserve $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups sirup)
- 1 tablespoon (1 env.)
unflavored gelatin
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup icy cold water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup nonfat dry milk
6 tablespoons toasted coconut

1. Pour $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of the reserved sirup into a small bowl and sprinkle gelatin evenly over sirup. Let stand about 5 min. to soften.

2. Reserve about 17 apricot halves for bottom of pie and set aside. Force remaining apricots through a coarse sieve or food mill.

3. Combine apricot purée, remaining $\frac{3}{4}$ cup sirup, sugar, and lemon juice in a saucepan. Heat until very hot. Add softened gelatin and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Chill in refrigerator or over ice and water until mixture begins to gel (gets slightly thicker). If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.

4. Shortly before gelatin mixture is of desired consistency, pour the icy cold water into a chilled bowl. Sprinkle nonfat dry milk evenly over water. Using a chilled beater, beat until mixture stands in stiff peaks when beater is slowly lifted upright.

5. When gelatin mixture is of desired consistency, spread whipped milk over gelatin mixture and gently fold together.

6. Arrange reserved apricot halves, cut side down, evenly over bottom of baked pastry shell. Turn gelatin mixture into shell. Top evenly with toasted coconut. Chill until firm, 2 to 3 hrs.

One 9-in. pie

Peanut Butter Pancakes

TO PREPARE: ABOUT 20 MIN.

- 1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup creamy peanut butter
- 1 cup pancake mix
1 egg white

1. Combine egg yolk and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of the milk. Blend in the peanut butter until mixture is smooth and creamy. Slowly blend in remaining milk.

2. Add pancake mix; stir until just blended. (Batter will be slightly lumpy.)

3. Beat egg white until rounded peaks are formed and egg white does not slide when bowl is partially inverted. Fold egg white into pancake batter.

4. Pour batter from a pitcher or tip of a large spoon onto a hot, lightly greased griddle. Bake pancakes until golden brown on both sides, turning only once. Remove to warm platter and serve with Peanut Butter Sirup.

About 10 pancakes

Peanut Butter Sirup

Blend 3 tablespoons creamy peanut butter with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup maple sirup in a small saucepan. Heat over low heat until very hot; stir in 1 tablespoon butter.

Honey Butter

Cream butter until softened and gradually add an equal amount of honey; whip at high speed until fluffy. Serve with hot biscuits.

Chocolate-Frosted Cereal Candy

TO PREPARE: ABOUT 30 MIN.

- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter
 $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. marshmallows
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
 $3\frac{1}{2}$ cups whole wheat flakes
 $\frac{2}{3}$ cup shredded or flaked coconut
 $\frac{1}{3}$ cup chopped salted peanuts
1 6-oz. pkg. semisweet chocolate pieces, melted over hot water

1. Melt butter, marshmallows, and salt in the top of a double boiler over simmering water, stirring occasionally.

2. Combine cereal, coconut, and nuts; toss gently to mix. Pour marshmallow mixture over cereal mixture; quickly toss to coat evenly.

3. Press mixture evenly into a buttered 9-in. square pan. Spread melted chocolate over top. Cool until chocolate is set. Cut into squares.

About 64 pieces

Creamy Danish Whip

Prepare strawberry-flavored Danish dessert according to package directions. Set aside to cool. Prepare 1 pkg. dessert-topping mix according to package directions. Thoroughly blend mixtures together. Chill. To serve, spoon into chilled sherbet glasses.

4 to 6 servings

Danish Mallow Whip

Follow directions for Creamy Danish Whip, substituting one 16-oz. jar of marshmallow cream for the dessert-topping mix.

Sour Cream Meat Sauce

Reheat cooked meat slices or meat balls in this spicy sauce for a delicious quick dish.

TO PREPARE AND COOK: ABOUT 30 MIN.

- 1 pkg. spaghetti sauce mix
2 cups water
1 cup thick sour cream

1. Blend spaghetti sauce mix and water together in a saucepan. Bring to boiling, reduce heat, and simmer for 25 min. Remove from heat.

2. Gradually add the sour cream, blending well. Heat thoroughly; do not boil.

About 3 cups sauce

Double Chocolate Rebels

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO BAKE: 12 MIN.

- 1 cup sifted flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon baking soda
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons cocoa
 $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups butter
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups sugar
1 egg, well beaten
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
3 cups uncooked rolled oats
6 oz. (1 pkg.) semisweet chocolate pieces

1. Sift together the first four ingredients; set aside.

2. Cream the butter and vanilla extract together until butter is softened. Add the sugar gradually, creaming until fluffy after each addition. Add the beaten egg in thirds, beating thoroughly after each addition.

3. Mixing thoroughly after each addition, alternately add dry ingredients in two additions, water in one addition, to the creamed mixture. Add the oats gradually, stirring well. Mix in the chocolate pieces.

4. Drop by teaspoonfuls about 2 in. apart onto ungreased cookie sheets.

5. Bake at 350°F 12 min. Allow cookies to cool slightly on cookie sheets and then remove to cooling racks.

About 15 doz. 2-in. cookies

Raisin Rebels

Follow recipe for Double Chocolate Rebels, substituting 1 cup (7 oz.) chopped dark seedless raisins for the chocolate pieces.

advice... and now

MY CONSTIPATION WORRIES ARE OVER!

THOUSANDS of doctors were recently asked, "Do you ever recommend Milk of Magnesia?" The overwhelming majority replied: "Yes!" And no wonder! Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is both a gentle laxative and a soothing antacid. This means that while Phillips' relieves constipation, it also relieves accompanying acid indigestion. No single-purpose laxative can offer you such complete, yet comfortable relief. Just ask your doctor!

No Nagging Backache Means a Good Night's Sleep

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets or day to day stress and strain. And folks who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation... with that restless, uncomfortable feeling.

If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Doan's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable, with restless, sleepless nights, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Ask for new, large, economy size and save money. Get Doan's Pills today!

The recording maestro says rock-'n'-roll is beginning to play second fiddle

Miller leads "singalong," a revival of old-time songfest.

Good Music Is Back

A FEW YEARS ago, when the rock-'n'-roll eruption seemed capable of turning America into a nation of apoplectic music haters, I tried to soothe my friends with the words of Justice Harlan Stone.

"One can always depend on the sober second thoughts of the American people," I assured them. "Good music will certainly rise again!"

In the days that followed, only my beard gave me the mark of the prophet. Radio and television saturated the airways with the dreadful, monotonous dirge. Rock-'n'-roll idols developed overnight.

Indeed, the second thoughts were a long time coming, but now America is answering back. Millions have banded together in a beautiful, tuneful uprising that has sent the perpetrators of the rock-'n'-roll scourge running for cover. Yes, America has returned to the music of the good old days; what's more, it's embracing these old favorites the same way Dad and Granddad did—by locking arms and blending voices in group singing.

There is a slight, modern variation to the old songfest. Where once the family, or party, gathered around the player piano or Junior's ukulele, now the hi-fi set is the focal point and "sing along" is the byword. A stack of LPs is put in motion, a circle of tapping toes picks up the beat and the harmonious song session is on—good, simple, singable music that stirs memories, like "Down by the Old Mill Stream," "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet," or "By the Light of the Silvery Moon."

The happy return of good music, however, has not been limited to the swelling chorus of old favorites. Every variety to quality entertainment in which everyone takes part of music is enjoying a rebirth. Folk music, for instance, is soaring in popularity, and much of the credit for this belongs to the wide appeal of young vocal groups like the Kingston Trio and the Limelighters. The blues, as featured by Ray Charles and Ray Price, has made a tremendous comeback, and with Erroll Garner, Jonah Jones, and Dave Brubeck showing the way, good jazz is enjoying a bigger vogue than ever.

Unlike the hectic days of rock-'n'-roll, when most record makers simply looked for sideburns on a monotonous guitar plunker, the emphasis has returned to the important ingredients of musical entertainment—the performer, the material, and the production. All must be high caliber. Percy Faith's "Theme from a Summer Place" and Roger Williams' "Autumn Leaves" are classic examples of this selectivity. Records by such top-quality artists as Billy Vaughn, Johnny Mathis, the Brothers Four, and Ray Coniff point this up—as does the demand for Nat King Cole and Frank Sinatra.

But the group-singing boom has caused the most excitement in the music business.

I like to think that it all started one afternoon during a meeting at our record-company office, when an associate said: "I wish someone would record an album of songs we used to sing in the Army. The kind that listeners can participate in informally."

It was a fine idea, and I jumped at it. I took a male chorus of 25, and backed them up with good "folk" instruments. I kept the vocal arrangements simple, and used the tried-and-true songs. The results, if I do say so myself, were marvelous. And the "Sing Along with Mitch" albums were born.

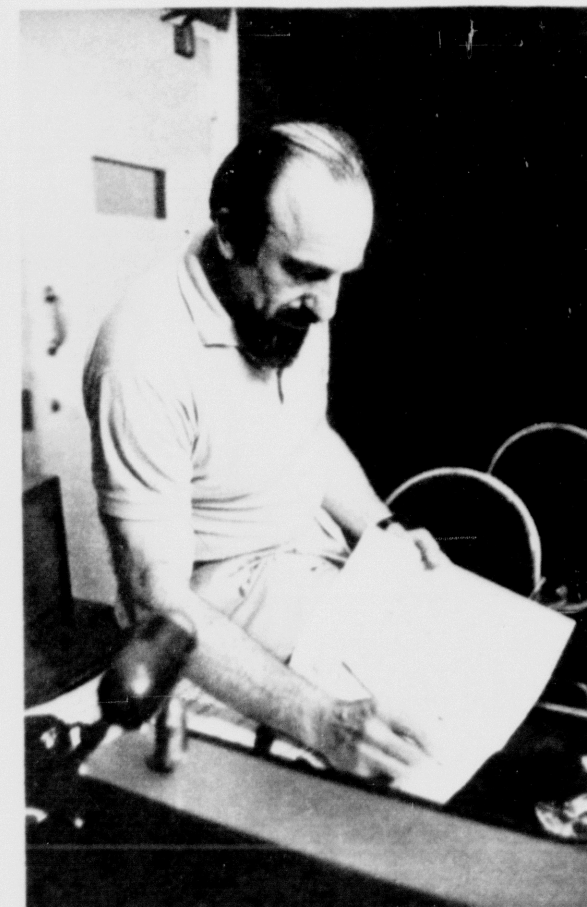

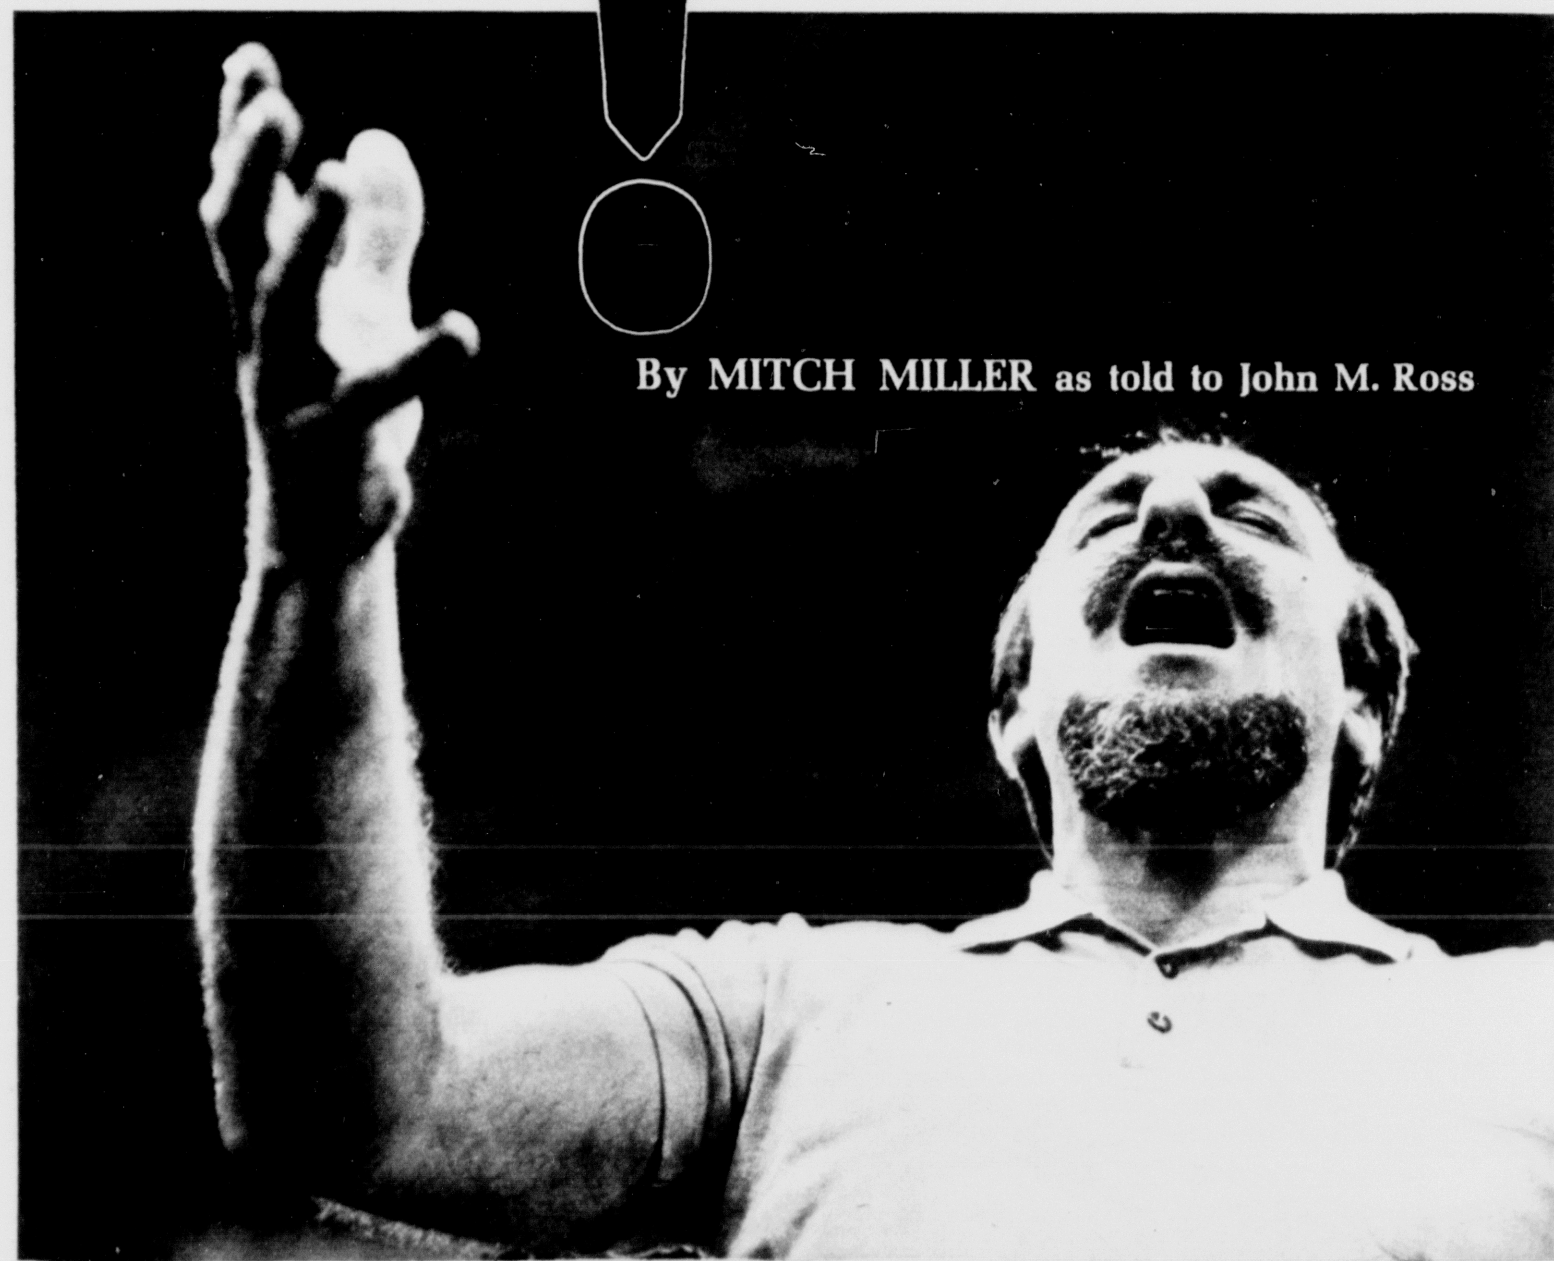

Needless to say, I don't subscribe to the theory that the return to good music means the complete extinction of rock-'n'-roll. But now I think it will be aired in proper proportion to the percentage of the population to which it appeals. Basically, this is something for the sub-teens. It got its start because they wanted music of their own.

The amazing aspect of the whole rock-'n'-roll movement was that its devotees represented only 12 percent of our population and directly accounted for only 10 percent of the sales of the record business.

Now, surveys tell us, even the youngsters are joining their elders in reaching for the old songs—even though most of these tunes were written half-a-century or more before they were born.

For one who has refused to believe that our young people had such bad musical taste, this is most gratifying.

By MITCH MILLER as told to John M. Ross

Bearded prophet Miller declared, "Good music will rise again," even in heyday of rock-'n'-roll. Now that he is proved right, he happily composes and conducts music for contented public.

Special "decongestant-action" cough syrup breaks up congestion at night while it quiets racking cough

Science has developed a cough syrup that relieves two most annoying symptoms of colds or flu—it breaks up congestion as it quiets bronchial coughing.

Next time a cold strikes be sure to get Creomulsion Cough Syrup, the special cough syrup with this decongestant action.

Creomulsion Cough Syrup contains a special decongestant that loosens and helps expel germ-laden phlegm, thus breaking up chest congestion. It soothes the irritated bronchial membranes to quiet even those nighttime racking coughs... without codeine or other habit-forming narcotics... thus helping you get a good night of restful sleep.

• Parents will find safe, pleasant-tasting Creomulsion for Children just as effective.
